Body of boater found after exhausting search

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

The body of a boater finally floated to the surface of Cross Lake after a three and one half day search ended in vain, and Antioch authorities had to call off the search after exhausting all available options.

Antioch resident Robert Applegren, 29, of the 400 block of Edgewood Dr., was found at 6:12 a.m., July 21, by a police watch unit after becoming tangled in the weeds some four days earlier.

Applegren was driving the boat, at around 7 p.m. on July 17, when he fell out after making a sharp turn during a water sport activity, Antioch Fire Department authorities said.

Almost immediately after the incident, local rescuers were on the scene attempting to find Applegren, who apparently was struck by the boat after he fell into the water possibly causing him to become tangled in thick vegetation growing on the bottom of Cross Lake. Authorities believe Applegren was not wearing a life preserver at the time he fell out of the boat.

Antioch Fire Department Spokesman Bill Eckart speculated that the body became tangled in the seaweed.

After the initial search for Applegren failed, Antioch authorities called the Lake County Underwater Rescue and Recovery Team, which consists of divers and support personnel from numerous surrounding villages and towns.

"We had a four-county effort here," said Eckart. "That included Lake, Cook, McHenry and Kenosha, Wisconsin County personnel."

Basically during the daylight hours from the evening on July 17 until 5 p.m. on July 20, divers searched the thick lake for a sign of Applegren's body in what might be an unequalled rescue effort.

"On Saturday, we had some 144 divers in the water and 175 support personnel here," said Eckart. "We tried everything we could think of from helicopters, boats, dogs and a weed harvester to find the victim. We had to call it off. We have exhausted our resources."

"This is a very sad thing," said Antioch Public Safety Inspector Lee Shannon, Monday night. "We covered the area with a fine tooth comb and still could not find him."

Cross Lake is a semi-private lake some 90 acres in size, up to 30 feet deep, and is located in the North end of Antioch in the Oakwood Knolls subdivision. Nearly two-thirds of the lake is across the Wisconsin border, said Eckart.

After the search ended, Antioch Rescue authorities praised everyone involved, especially the local homeowners who volunteered in the search.

"The cooperation from the people around the lake has been fantastic," said Eckart.

CAUSE calls for investigation approval of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

According to the citizen's group, Edison began building the substation in the fall of 1991 without any authority from the ICC. CAUSE said Edison did file a petition for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity on April 10, 1992, several months after the substation was completed.

It is this type of deception, according to CAUSE Spokesman Jim Pierce, from Edison that the residents along the proposed power line route won't stand for anymore.

"This substation was built without authority," said Pierce. "We want to know who gave Edison the authority to built this substation."

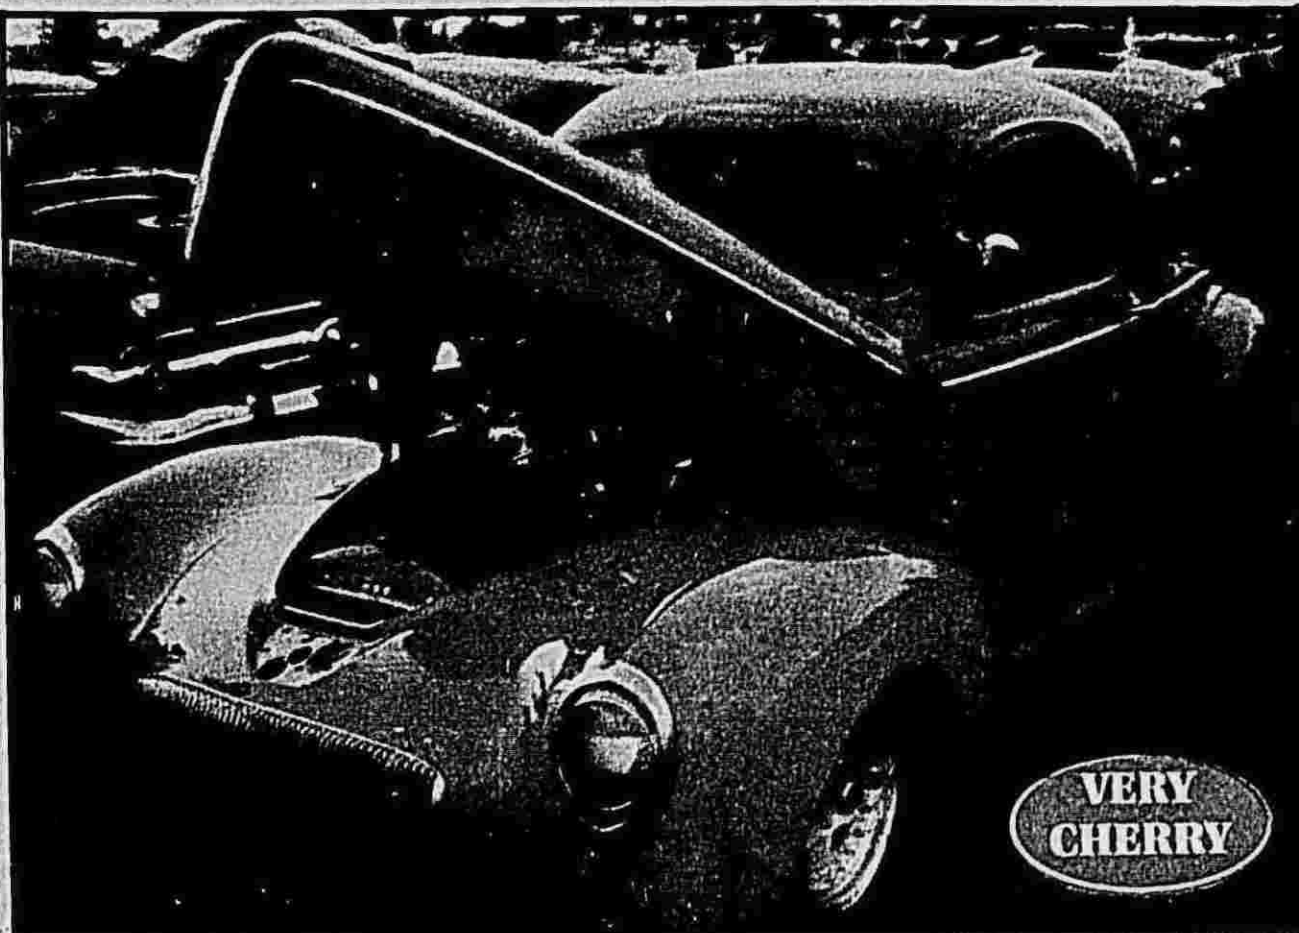

To help further along the process, CAUSE has contacted several national and state legislators, including U.S. Sen. Paul Simon and U.S. Rep. Phillip Crane, and Illinois Attorney General Roland Burris.

State Reps. John Matijevich (D-Waukegan) and Robert Churchill (R-Antioch) joined with CAUSE last month in its effort to block the lines that could go through Lake Villa, West Miltmore, and Loon Lake to the Antioch substation.

Presently, several local governmental bodies, including the Antioch and Lake Villa Townships and the Lake County Board, have passed resolutions banning the power lines and calling for a further look into the side effects of electromagnetic field exposure. However, these resolutions really have no direct effect on Edison as it is only the ICC that (Continued on Page 5)

Gurnee baby dies after heart surgery

GURNEE—Alexandria Crawford, a two-month old baby, underwent a Norwood heart procedure at the Children's Memorial Medical Center in Chicago. The technique was unsuccessful in saving the Gurnee baby, who passed away July 20. The Regional Organ Bank and the National United Network of Organ Sharing were called upon to try and find a heart transplant for Crawford, known as "Baby Alex". The eight-week effort failed. It included a calling tree at the Merchandise Mart, reminding people of the need for organ donors. The baby is the daughter of Dr. Constantine Mavroudis, head of cardiovascular surgery, performed the operation Monday afternoon. The Norwood Procedure is an alternative life-saving open heart operation performed in children with hypoplastic left heart syndrome.

GURNEE—The police department has released a photo of a videotape of the July 14 bank robbery at Harris Bank of Libertyville, Rtes. 21 and 132. One black female robbed that bank at 9:10 a.m., one week after two people robbed First Federal July 7. Local authorities are working with the FBI in both cases.

Charges dropped in sex-crime case

WAUKEGAN—Prosecutors on Wednesday dropped charges of attempted sexual assault against a Mundelein man arrested a month ago in connection with the crime. The move came after a 21-year-old Chicago woman on Monday did not identify the man in a police lineup as the person who had kidnapped her and attempted to assault her on June 25 in Vernon Hills. Believing there was insufficient evidence for a case, prosecutors moved to dismiss the charge against the man, Mark A. Mahoney, 32, of Hickory Road, Mundelein. Police had no other suspects.

The move Wednesday left the case "wide open," said Lake County State's Attorney's prosecutor George Strickland. "At this point, it's an open case," Strickland said. "Vernon Hills police and we (in the State's Attorney's office) will continue to try to find out who" committed the attack. Vernon Hills police's investigation continued.

Running across continent, group takes rest in county

by DAN BERNARD
Lakeland Newspapers

Running with the Native American spirit, a group of marathoners on their way from Alaska to Mexico City made a stop through Lake County.

The pack of about 40 diehard runners were participating in a transcontinental "peace run" to celebrate the 500th anniversary of Columbus' journey. Organized in part by a multi-ethnic Chicago group, the athletes' route brought them down Lake County's lake shore Friday and Saturday. From Madison, Wis., they headed along Sheridan Road and rested Friday night at North Chicago's Veteran Administration Hospital.

At the hospital, area residents gave them a ceremony Saturday morning to recognize the effort involved in running upwards of 40 miles a day.

"They're pretty tired, but everyone seemed in good spirits," said Benita Perez, an employee of the VA hospital who helped arrange the group's housing there.

The event, called the "Peace and Dignity Journeys 1992," has a spiritual tone and political overtones. The concept of the run is that participants are relating directly to nature as Native Americans did. That symbolized the event's themes of harmony with the ecology and harmony between races and ethnic groups.

But the run is also a deliberate counterpoint to European-oriented commemorations of Christopher Columbus' journey to the Americas. Many Native Americans regard Columbus as a conqueror and symbol of their people's genocide.

The event is not a protest, however, Perez said. "It's basically a response" by Native American and other ethnic groups, Perez said. "They (Europeans) are celebrating (the 500th anniversary), and we're celebrating it, too—in a different way."

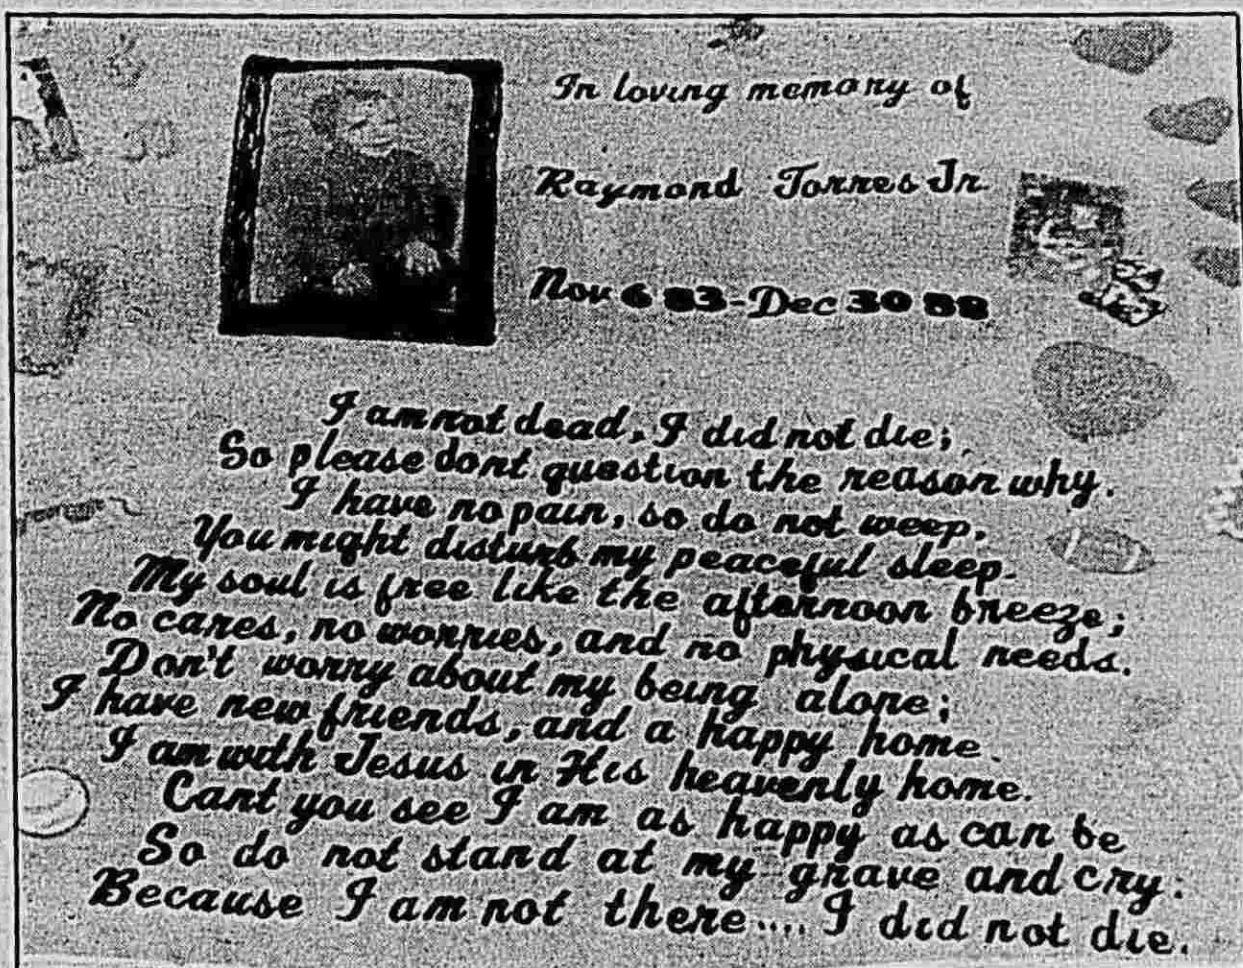

Organizers call the event "Peace and Dignity Journeys," plural, because as one group runs south to Mexico City, another group is running north from South America.

A core group of the runners who traversed the county last week started from Tok, Alaska on May 2 and are scheduled to rendezvous with the South American pack on Oct. 12.

The group is "very diverse," Perez said. The multicultural running team, which changes composition as runners drop out and others join, includes an Inupiaq Eskimo from Golovin, Alaska; Native Americans; Hispanics; African-Americans; Caucasians with Native American roots and non-ethnic Caucasians "who believe in the cause" behind the run, Perez said.

Although the group's trip through Lake County was relatively low on fanfare, the runners got their share of hoopla when they arrived at Chicago's Buckingham Fountain Saturday evening. Arriving right on schedule with a timeframe planned early this year, the group was honored with a rally by Chicago's American Indian Center.

Then it was on to St. Louis, where they were due to arrive Thursday the 23rd; Kansas City by next Wednesday, the 29th; then to Colorado, New Mexico and Texas.

The Spirit of Life

One touching section of the AIDS quilt that brought tears and emotion to the faces of everyone who came to view the quilt July 17-18 at Lakewood Museum just outside of Wauconda was this section, both reflecting the life Raymond Torres, Jr. once had and rejoicing the life he has now. Raymond was 5-years-old when AIDS claimed his life in 1988. The AIDS quilt serves as a memorial to people who have died of the disease. Each section is a quilt in itself, 6 ft. long and 3 ft. wide, the size of a grave. — Photo by Gene Gabry.

Antioch baby continues her winning ways at state finals

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

An Antioch super model has been born and she doesn't even drink Pepsi, yet.

Keeley Ann Thode, the 20 month-old daughter of Scot and Sharon Thode of Antioch, continued on her winning ways as she walked away with 14 state trophies and $1,100 in savings bonds at the Illinois New Star Discovery Contest held at the Holiday Inn Crown Plaza in Lisle,

Keeley Ann Thode

Ill., on June 19-21. In February, Thode won nine regional trophies at the regional contest at the Diplomat in Gurnee.

Thode now will compete in the national competition at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows from August 21-23.

'We just can't believe it. You just hope that she will behave herself, and then she wins all these trophies.'
—Sharon Thode

"We just can't believe it," said Sharon Thode after the regional competition. "You just hope that she will behave herself, and then she wins all these trophies."

Thode won first place trophies for the overall competition in the 15-23 month age division, sports, state costume, personality, swimwear, pajamas and mother/daughter personality at the the state finals.

Thode's total winning includes some 20 trophies, 5 crowns and she will make guest appearances from Sept. '92 to '93 at various other pageants.

The Thode's entire family has supported Keeley by attending both the regional and state finals and plan to watch her take on the nation's best babies next month.

"She has just been wonderful," said Sharon.

CAUSE group continues fight against power lines

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

The Citizens Against UnSafe Electricity group continued its pressure to stop Commonwealth Edison from erecting mammoth 138,000-volt power lines in Northern Lake County when it gave a tour of the proposed sites to various state and local political heavyweights.

State representatives John Matijevich (D-Waukegan) and Robert Churchill (R-Antioch) and various other local government officials, including Lindenhurst Mayor Paul Baumunk and Lake Villa Township Supervisor Sue Hanson, followed CAUSE organizer Jim Pierce to four sites where the proposed Edison lines could do the most damage to local residents.

Churchill and Matijevich want the state legislature to pass a moratorium on high voltage transmission lines until the health issues can be studied more.

"We will find that there is a health risk with EMF just as we did with asbestos," said Matijevich. "If we err, let us err on the side of caution."

Churchill said he supports a one-year ban that would apply to Lake County only. "My main concern is public safety," said Churchill, who is the chairman of the Lake County Republican Party.

Local officials from Antioch, Lindenhurst and Lake County also attended the tour to better understand where Com-Ed plans to place the lines and watched the measuring of the electromagnetic fields near homes and schools.

Baumunk related his concerns, even though the lines will not pass through his village, as the effects they will have on the village's children.

"Our children go to those schools near where the new lines are proposed," said Baumunk.

The schools which would be affected, with increased EMF exposure, would be Lake Villa Intermediate School and Pleviak Elementary School in Lake Villa School District 41.

After the tour, Pierce said that the tour's purpose was to show local officials that alternatives to the present plan can and must be found because Edison plans to build these new lines near recreational areas, residential homes and schools.

"We tried to show them that there will be an increased level of electromagnetic radiation in our residential communities," said Pierce. "There have to be other alternatives to building these power lines where they are."

The three-hour guided tour along the proposed route began at the $1.5 million Antioch substation Edison built earlier this year, and continued through and along Loon Lake, Cedar Lake and Lake Villa.

At each stop, the CAUSE group measured the EMF readings and shared them with the tour group. Some EMF studies have concluded that continuous exposure to electromagnetic fields can cause cancer, leukemia and other ailments, especially in children.

Edison, who has said in the past that this route is the most advantageous for both them and their customers, believes that the new lines will not increase EMF exposure significantly more than is present now.

"We're not saying that we don't want power," said Lake County Board member Suzi Schmidt. "We just want it to be sensible. This plan has a better alternative."

Alternatives to the present proposal, said Pierce, could include burial of the lines to energy conservation. "We know that continued growth in the area will result in a greater need for electricity. But alternatives like energy conservation could be the answer."

has ruling authority over a utility like Edison.

The ICC, which had representatives present as observers at the CAUSE rally on July 15, has stated that it hasn't formed an opinion yet and is waiting for all of the information to come in before acting. Some of that data could come from the four planned ICC public hearings that began on July 20 at the College of Lake County.

According to CAUSE, the proposed power lines, which would be constructed along the Wisconsin Central Railroad right of way, which runs adjacent to numerous homes, would not be placed far enough away from residential housing to be safe for human habitation.

The concern CAUSE has is that scientific studies have proven that exposure to EMF can effect the bodies immune system and may lead to cancer or leukemia in children.

One of the group's other concerns is the possible devaluation of homes and property adjacent to the high voltage transmission lines.

"We believe that home valuations could drop as much as 50 percent after the lines are completed," said Pierce. "That is significant."

Pierce said they decided to hold their press conference in front of the new substation to prove that it had already been built and he believes Edison will use it as leverage to help gain passage of the power lines due to the fact that the $1.5 million substation has already been constructed.

"This substation is the first step of the link that will bring a 138,000 volt transmission circuit through our community," said Pierce. "Who assured Edison that this new transmission line and this substation could be set into use without first filing with the ICC?"

Pierce added that in a previous meeting, Waukegan District Manager for Edison Ron Crawford said that the substation, if the transmission lines were not approved, would be of no use to Edison.

Edison fired back after the conference stating that the building of the Antioch substation was done legally and although they understand the concerns of the CAUSE group, their accusations are based on conjecture.

"It has not been standard procedure for us to get a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to build a substation," said Edison's Robert Spapperi, who was taking calls for the vacationing Crawford. "We need to look forward to the area's future power needs."

According to Spapperi, the northern portion of the Edison service area is the fastest growing and planning for the future now is necessary and in the best interests of Edison's customers.

In addition to the new transmission lines, Spapperi said Edison is also looking into other alternative power sources, like the Least-Cost Plan which could help decrease the cost of power to the area once implemented.

"We must plan for the future," said Spapperi.

Bicycle theft ring broken up

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch Police have charged eight Antioch youths with theft after police arrested three of the youths for the theft of a bike on July 10.

Antioch Police Sergeant Ron Roth said the original arrest lead to the theft ring, which began around the first of the year.

The youths, which range from 12 to 16 years of age, concentrated their efforts on unlocked BMX style bikes left near businesses in the downtown area. "They were selling the bikes as parts to other youths," said Roth.

The eight juveniles are now under juvenile court jurisdiction and face theft charges. The group is believed to have taken some 12 bikes ranging in value from $200 to $650. Roth said seven bikes have been recovered so far.

Roth encouraged residents to register their bikes with the village and lock them up when unattended to prevent future thefts.

Zion tops field at Antioch Invitational

The Zion Dolphins topped a four team field on July 19 to claim first place honors in the State Bank of Antioch's 24 Annual Antioch Invitational at the Antioch Aqua Center.

Zion earned 325 points to win the contest, followed by the Antioch Waves' 291, the Lake Geneva Dolphins' 190 and the Gurnee Park District's 113.

Five records fell during the competition. In the individual events, Antioch's Ryan Rothmel broke his own 9-10 boys freestyle record by more than four seconds, turning in a 66 yard time of 43.48 seconds. Zion's Tyler Belanger broke the 33 yard breaststroke record, while Gurnee's

Carolyn Grevers entered the record book in the 11-12 girls breaststroke. In co-ed competition, the Zion 9-10 year old relay team of M. McCreary, M. Tippit, T. Belanger and J. Martinez broke Antioch's former 132 yard record set two years ago, while Waves swimmers Brian Murphy, Roger Behm, Dawn DeServi and Mary Aschbacher set a new 132 yard 13-14 year old record.

The Invitational marks the end of the regular season for Antioch, who enters Conference Championship competition this week, said Antioch Waves Head Coach Gregg Henning.

Antioch crowns two jewels at its yearly beauty contests

Congratulations

No one better than I realizes how wordy I become when I am excited over something. So brace yourselves, people, for "The Lizard" is about to expound on two very special annual Antioch functions.

On June 30 and July 1, I had the pleasant opportunity to attend the Little Miss Antioch and Miss Antioch pageants. There were 18 special little ladies, ranging in age from six through eight years, competing in the Little Miss Antioch contest and all of them did an excellent job. When the final scores were tallied, little Kaja Milovanovic received the trophy as the recipient of "Little Miss Best Friend" and sweet little Kari Hintz was crowned "Little Miss Antioch for 1992." The contestants in the Miss Antioch contest ranged in ages from 16 through 18 years of age. After all was said and done, JoAnn Pecoraro received the first runner up award and Christy Clark was Crowned "Miss Antioch 1992."

Naturally the success of functions of this magnitude require many hours, days, weeks and months of preparation by many people. The stage was beautifully decorated, both evenings, thanks to the talented efforts of Olga Dempksi of Olga's Gift Emporium in downtown Antioch. Carol Todd of the Park and Recreation Department did an excellent job coordinating and planning the functions and once again, Ted Axton did a superb job as the master of ceremonies. Elegant Ann Kakacek described the day and evening wear of all of the contestants to perfection and the ushers, Jason Nolan, Dale Morgan, Corey Clark and Tommy Chilcote did an excellent job escorting the contestants on and off of the stage.

The dancing and singing entertainment for both evenings was fantastic and the sound, lighting and choreography crews did an expert job.

As is tradition, the retiring Little Miss and Miss Antioch gave their farewell speeches. Miss Antioch 1991, Shelley Brausam, looked exceptionally elegant in her beautiful sequin and beaded blue and gold evening gown. After she gave her farewell speech, their wasn't a dry eye in the house and the audience honored her with a standing ovation.

As Major Wilton and Ted Axton talked of the Centennial week and reminded everyone of the special, up-coming town events I realized how special our town is.

Antioch is growing in leaps and bounds yet somehow it has preserved and cultivated a friendly, warm, small-town flavor. As I glanced around the room each evening and personally recognized so many friendly faces in the crowd, I knew my roots as a city girl in Chicago were lost and gone forever. Hello there, "Faces in the Crowd" (in alphabetical order). Keep coming out to support our town in such a gracious manner—Andy Avila, Vickie Axton, Susie, Katy and Debbie Baird, Michael, information is (708)395-1259.

Don't miss it

St. Peter's Church in Antioch will be hosting their Second Annual Pig Roast on Sunday, July 26. The tasty menu will include expertly prepared roast pork

Hometown Goodies

Mary and Linda Boerman, Marie, Jenny, Jamie, Linda, Don, Vivian and Rudy Brausam, Patti, Katrina and Grandma Brooke, Kendra Casey, Laurel Dahl, Pat Elliott, Lauren, Christine and Debbie Forrester, Pam Friedrich, Sheri Hagland, Corry and Amy Hansen, Karrol Kintz, Susan Lloyd, Chris and Amy Martin, Angie McAvoy, Brian McGuire, Sandy Miller, Cathy, Lee and Kyle Milovanovic, Cathy and Millie Morenz, Tricia, Deana, Darlene and Bob Olenick, Angelo Ranconi, Nicole Schaller, Donna Schmehl, Jennifer Tamburino, Lorrie and Lindsey Teaters, Christian Ward, Mable Lou Weber, Tim wells and Stacy Zbylut.

Bible classes
One more reminder to contact the United Methodist Church office to sign up for Vacation Bible School. Classes will be held at United Methodist from July 27 to 31. This is a special opportunity for children ages three years through seventh grade. Classes will be in session from 9 to 11 a.m. The number to call for further (pig), delicious german potato salad, yummy baked beans, applesauce, corn, dinner roll and a serving of one of the tasty homemade desserts.

The price for this pig roast meal is only $5 for adults and only $3.50 for children under 12 years and the tiny tots, ages 2 and under, eat free. I am sure that those of you who attended the St. Peter's roast last year will agree they are noted for serving extremely generous portions of food to all of their patrons.

In talking to several people who attended last year's roast, I was told the food was not only delicious but the portions were so generous they had trouble "licking their platters clean!!" This Sun. July 26, take the whole family out to dinner St. Peter style, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Incidentally, the four pigs will be roasted right on the grounds of St. Peter's and weather permitting the meal will be served out-of-doors. If the weather does not cooperate then it will be in the gym/social center. Not only do I like Butterfingers, I also have a weakness for roast pork—maybe I'll see you there.

New parents

Loreen and Dave Robaczewski became parents for the first time on May 23. Their beautiful new daughter, Brittany Renee, weighed in a 7 lbs. 12 oz. Congratulations to you both and I know little Brittany is in good hands.

Engagement

Congratulations are in order for Lisa Falcone and Ed Mizerk who became officially engaged on June 19. Lisa and Ed are planning an October 1993 wedding and will have a huge bridal party consisting of bridesmaids, groomsmen, ring bearer and flower girl.

Get well

I would like to extend a welcome home, get completely well wish to Bob Lasky from Lizard, readers, neighbors, friends and family. Take care, Robert, follow the doctor's orders and get 100 percent back on your feet so I can one again pursue my life long career of harassing and teasing you.

Sooner or later

Sometimes people do certain things that they worriedly assume will get them recognition (be it wanted or unwanted) in "Hometown Goodies". Due to other pending news items or in an effort to execute a sneak attack it doesn't always hit the wires as quickly as anticipated. Ken Bergrl, I want you to know I thoroughly enjoyed your blackboard message complimenting "Hometown Goodies" and the artistic drawing of a Lizard was definitely appropriate. I'll have to engage your talents in designing a Lizard Logo for my personal stationery. Also I enjoyed hearing about your almost phone call on the Fourth of July. Relax, momma Bergrl, he didn't really call just did that to tease you. Once a character, always a character. Don't ever change and keep smiling!!

New Idea

Someone recently contacted me with a new idea for "Hometown Goodies." This someone was Janet Harrison who shared a childhood memory revolving around family visits to her grandmother's house in a small town in Florida. Janet recalled her grandmother reading her articles from a column similar to "Hometown Goodies" in the small Florida town many years ago. When her grandmother knew Janet, her siblings and parents would be arriving for a scheduled visit, she would call in the details surrounding their arrival into the local paper. During their visit she would then present them with a copy of the article. Janet said it made them feel like celebrities. As they visited grandma's friends and neighbors, everyone spoke of their announced arrival in the neighborhood news column.

So folks, if you anticipate any house guests, be it friends or relative, call me with the particulars in advance of their scheduled arrival and I'll do my best to give them a warm Antioch welcome via "Hometown Goodies." In turn you can give them a copy of the article to tuck away in their memory book to enjoy long after their visit is completed. Thanks, Janet, I like the idea and I think our readers will too!

Board meeting

The July 14, Grass Lake School Board of Education meeting was well-attended. John Fleschman was sworn in to replace Julianne Groh following her May 12 resignation and the other members of the board welcomed John aboard.

In other business, the Board took several actions and/or received many items of information. The board thanked Edward Gonwa, the Lake county Regional Superintendent of schools for his assistance in appointing the new member to the board. The Board approved the leasing of a new copier for the district and also the repair and sealcoating of the parking lot. Discussion was held on evening outside activities on the school ground and also on the results of the 1991-92 achievement test scores. The next scheduled meeting of the Grass Lake School Board of Education will be Aug. 11, at 7 p.m.

Letter to the Editor

Thank You

Editor:

Two years ago Linda Pederson and Bill Brook were gracious enough to accept the co-chairmanship of our Centennial Committee, agreeing to oversee all of the multitudinous details which would accompany the planning of a full week of events to celebrate and commemorate our Centennial Year!

Linda and Bill chose as members of the Committee Vickie Axton, Aileen Beil, Jim Fields, Dorothy Larson, Tim Osmond and Pres Reckers. Our Village Board of-Trustees happily approved each selection. Together this Committee spent many long hours planning, coordinating and networking to ensure that our Centennial Year would be all that we could hope for. There were events for everyone and each member of our village was filled with pride.

Our Centennial Committee dedicated themselves (for two years) to one goal, presenting our Village of Antioch and its a tribute to the caring and extraordinary people who contributed so much to making Antioch what it is today and great anticipation toward the direction that the village of Antioch will continue to pursue. We are deeply saddened by the loss of Bill Brook, but are certain that he will always be remembered by the examples he set.

For our Parade Chairman John Ruffin, for Claude LaMere who took care of special events, Joe Hunley who handled publicity and Sara Lehn who served as Secretary, a sincere round of applause for a job that was not only well done, but will never be forgotten.

As mayor of our village and on behalf of all Antioch's citizens, I wish to offer all of the members of our Centennial Committee and all of those who contributed ideas, volunteered and appreciation for the care, the hard work and the determination that spanned a two-year period of your lives so that Antioch would shine brighter in this Centennial Year.

Second fatal crash claims avid West Miltmore bicyclist

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

In what is the second fatal bicycle accident in a month, a West Miltmore rider died on July 19 of injuries suffered in a July 18 collision with a Lindenhurst teen's car.

Michael P. Arendt, 39, died of massive head injuries he suffered after he was struck from behind at 8:15 a.m. while riding on Grass Lake Road near Route 45.

According to the Lindenhurst Police, Arendt was traveling westbound on Grass

Lake Road, only a few miles from his home, when he was struck by a car driven by Lance Rockstroh, 20. Despite wearing a helmet, Arendt suffered severe head injuries after flipping over the car's windshield, which shattered it, and momentum took him over the car and into a grassy area off the roadway.

Rockstroh then lost control of his car, ran off the road, and struck a utility pole. Police said Rockstroh was treated and released from Condell Medical Center in Libertyville.

A push to hook up county to mass transit

But tax increase to accompany planned services

by DAN BERNARD
Lakeland Newspapers

Transportation officials have a "wake-up call" for Lake County: The urbanizing county of the 21st Century is not going to be able to get by on cars alone. The county is going to need buses and trains, a lot more than it has now, or it's going to be one big traffic jam.

"Lake County's been exploding with growth," said Jeffrey Ladd, chairman of the Metra suburban train system of RTA. "You need more transportation."

"Those people who have a love affair with the auto—many of whom are still in policymaking positions—need to realize that we're on a route to disaster," said Florence Boone, chairwoman of RTA's suburban bus system, Pace.

The chiefs of the Regional Transportation Authority's suburban divisions are promoting a multibillion-dollar plan that would push public transportation's reach further into each of Chicago's collar counties. The officials portray the plan as a necessity for keeping pace with the region's growth.

"The public and the corporations don't know what's coming down the road," Boone said. "This is kind of a warning bell."

But taxpayers will have a price to pay for heading off roadway traffic snarls, the officials said.

Whether by raising the county sales tax, state income tax, or property tax of those living near the new transportation routes, county and local officials will have to decide how to pay for the new services—whatever services they decide are needed, the officials said.

"The public has a right to say, 'We want that,' and 'We don't want that for that much,'" Boone said. "These are all of things that could happen. We want to talk about it."

Metra and Pace officials will be meeting with representatives of the Lake County Board, township governments, and municipal boards over the coming year, Ladd said. By the end of a year, the officials will have worked out an altered form of the transit plan that reflects local opinion, Ladd said.

Even residents who refuse to give up their own car to ride a train should realize the necessity of strong public transportation, the officials said.

"I think today people are starting to realize, 'Hey, every jerk that takes that train is one less car for me to compete with,'" Boone said.

The plan—called "FAST," for Future

Air pollution, congested highways and a growing population all point up the need for mass transit, RTA officials argue.

Agenda for Suburban Transportation—would combine extending and improving current Metra rail lines, and establishing new lines in tandem with Pace bus service. Under the plan, officials will test the demand for possible rail-line extensions by first running Pace bus lines as "test balloons."

The reasons the region and the county need to put more mass transit in place are undeniable, Ladd and Boone say. They argue:

- Chicago's roadways are getting more unmanageably congested by the year;
- New federal anti-air pollution guidelines will restrict the number of spaces allowed in employee parking lots, forcing employees to alternative transportations like carpools and mass transit;
- Lake County's worker population is expected to grow at one of the fastest rates in the region.
- Lake County's population is expected to grow to 640,700 by 2010—a 36 percent increase from 1980. Employment is estimated to hit 306,700—a nearly 39 percent jump from 1980.
- On the downside, property tax values grow more slowly in areas inaccessible to public transportation;

- And lack of mass transit will reduce the number of possible workers for a given employer.

Antioch-to-Vernon line seen

The long-range plan incorporates an idea that had been discussed for several years, that of running a Metra line along the Wisconsin Central line that could someday connect Antioch with O'Hare Airport. In between, the line would service stops in Lake Villa, Round Lake Beach, Grayslake, Libertyville, Mundelein, Vernon Hills and Lincolnshire, then on to Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Prospect Heights — Estimated pricetag: $89.9 million.

Other parts of the rail plan, with estimates in 1991 dollars, include:

- Extending the current Metra Milwaukee District Line by adding a new fork on from Rondout to Wadsworth, with possible stations in Abbott Park and Gurnee — Estimated pricetag: $50.5 million.

- Streamlining signals and creating 29 "high-speed crossovers" in Lake County—underpasses and overpasses instead of the roadway-level railroad crossings—to speed up rail trips. Under the proposed improvements, a commuter could get from the hub to Zion in the same amount of time it now takes to get to Lake Forest. This would also include improvements to stations, bridges and

Florence Boone of Pace: 'People are starting to realize, "Hey, every jerk that takes that train is one less car for me to compete with."' support systems — Pricetag for lines serving Lake County: $795.3 million.

- Creating a "rim" line running the circumference of the metropolitan area. Built on the existent Elgin Joliet and Eastern freight line, the new passenger line would initially run between Barrington and Eola Road in far southwestern DuPage. Eventual extensions would head south to Joliet, and from Barrington to Waukegan, cutting diagonally through southern Lake County — Estimated pricetag (Barrington to Eola): $85.4 million.

On the bus side, the plan sees Pace service being extended to better interact with current Metra lines and anticipate future lines.

The plan would increase service by fixed route, what residents traditionally think of as a regular-running bus route, by 230 percent by the year 2010. But FAST would increase so-called "alternative" types of bus service, too.

Perhaps the most "gee-whiz" proposal in FAST would give buses the power to turn a red light to green to keep them on schedule. A device called "signal preemption" would communicate with traffic control signals by radio to favor the oncoming buses. Planners say signal preemption would only kick in if a bus was behind schedule and not in conflict with emergency vehicles. In Lake County, the estimated pricetag is $10.48 million.

Jeffrey Ladd of Metra: 'When (a state income-tax increase) happens, we'd like transportation to have a seat at the table.' — Photos by Thomas Stevens

Other proposals for Lake County include:

- Expanding Dial-a-Ride service—a custom ride service offered in areas not densely populated enough to justify regular lines—to the portion of central Lake County that is the only part of the county not currently served;
- Adding circulator lines—which run frequently and for short distances in commercial or office corridors—in the county's emerging major villages;
- Raising from one to 13 the number of Park 'n' Ride centers—transfer points between different types of transportation—mostly in the county's southern half — Estimated pricetag: $32.9 million.

- Adding two large bus turnarounds in the county. Cost: $4.72 million. And nine smaller turnarounds. Cost: $3.65 million.

- Adding bus-only lanes on the Tri-State Tollway that would allow buses to bypass tollbooths and high-traffic patches. Estimated pricetag: $6.24 million.

- And miscellaneous improvements including automatic fare collection.

Whatever of the elements of the plan county officials decide to support, the plan will mean a tax increase in some form, Ladd and Boone said.

Ladd believes an increase in the state income tax is inevitable, given the desperate scramble for funds in Springfield every budget session. "When that happens, we'd like transportation to have a seat at the table."

But for transportation improvements, a hike in the county sales tax may be more equitable. Currently, Chicagoans pay a full cent of sales tax per dollar to the RTA, while collar county residents pay only a quarter of a cent.

A possible property tax hike would be imposed after the fact on property owners who benefit from new transportation services. For example, a homeowner would be charged an extra tax on the amount of value his or her property increased after the establishment of a rail line nearby.

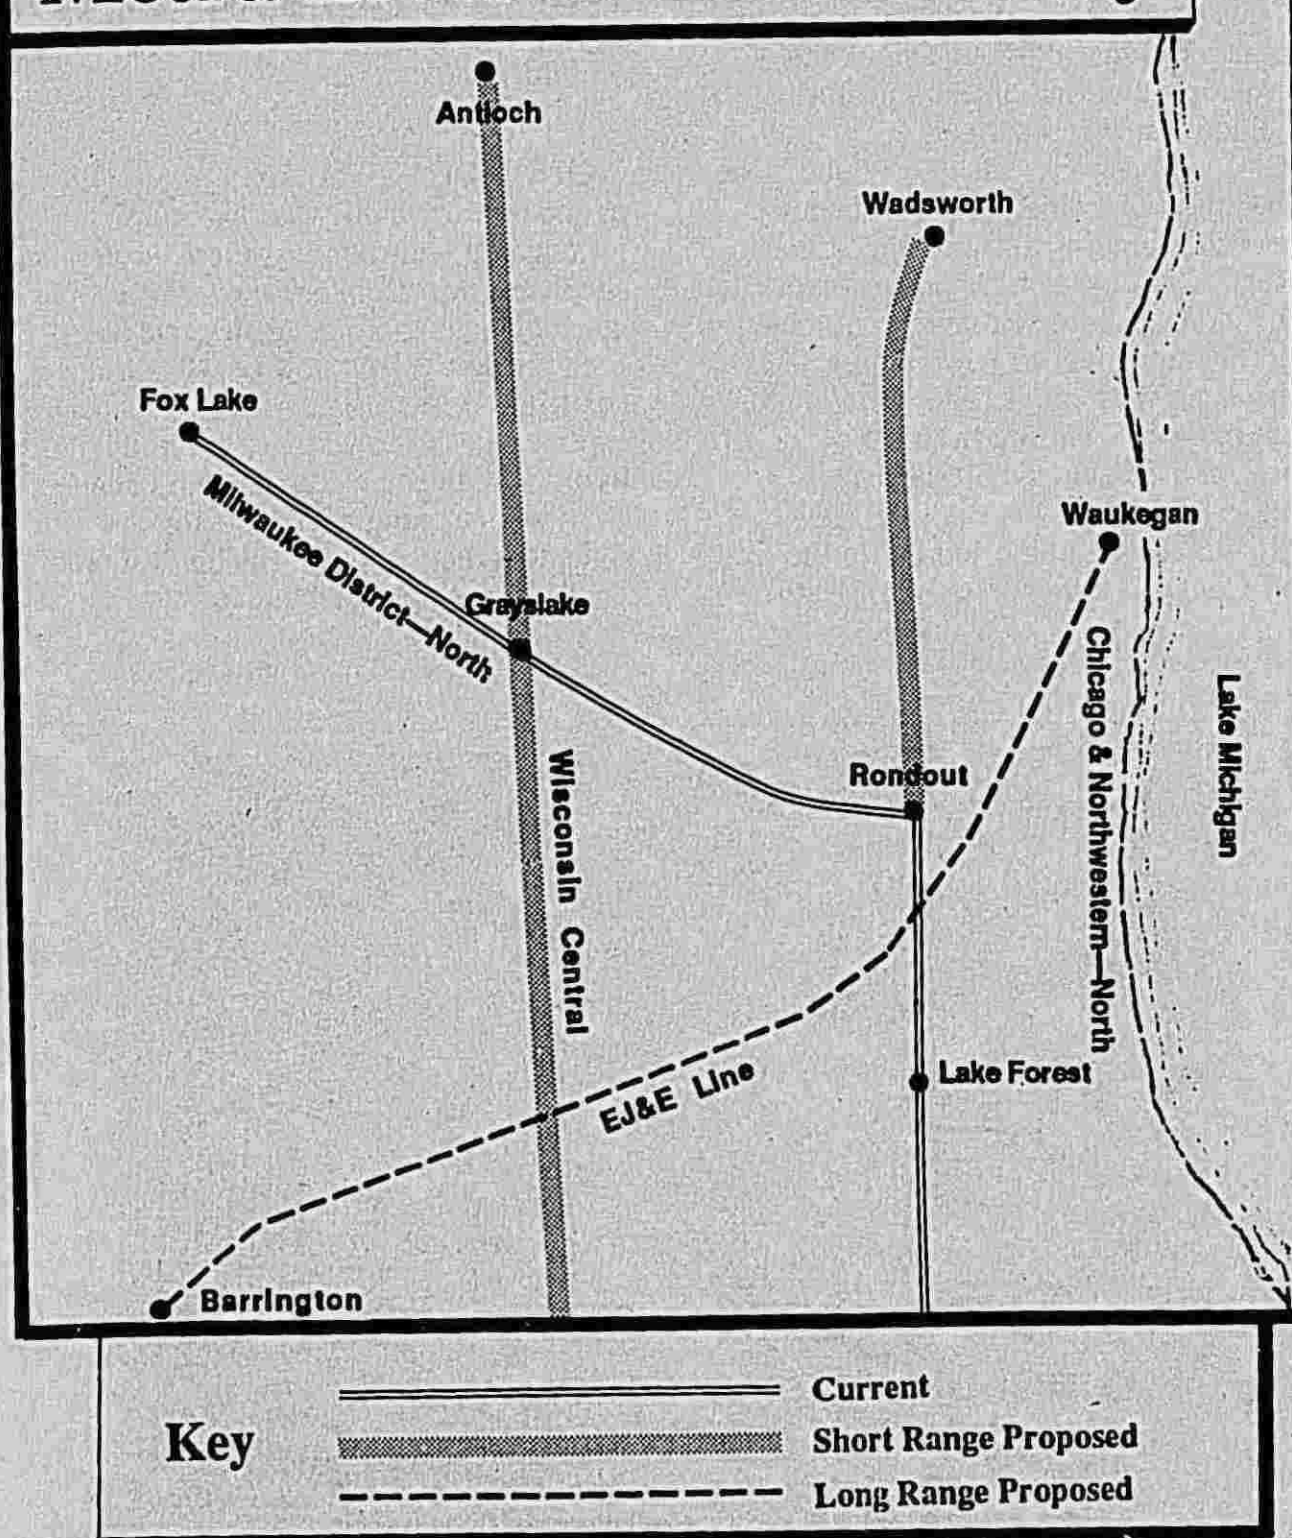

A loosening of federal guidelines gives RTA a new source of money. But it could cause friction with the state highway department. The new guidelines allow local officials to give a bigger chunk of federal transportation money to mass transit—money that in the past was reserved for roadways. That means RTA would be competing for funds with the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Ladd downplayed a possible conflict with IDOT.

"IDOT is pressed, too—We're not here talking about a raid on the IDOT treasury," Ladd said. The two agencies wrangle for funds every year anyway, Ladd said; Now they will just have more to wrangle about. But he predicted amiable relations between the agencies.

Other taxing methods could be explored that affect automobiles—such as taxing parking spaces in the suburbs, Boone said.

Metra Lines In Lake County

New commuter hope

With a change of heart on the part of Mayor Marilyn Sindles and other Mundelein officials, a plan to establish commuter service on the Wisconsin Central line through central Lake County is heating up again.

Mundelein's new enthusiasm coupled with interest expressed by area Congressman has injected new life in the plan that has been languishing for four years. The offices of U.S. Reps. John Porter, Philip Crane and Dan Rostenkowski have turned an attentive ear to the proposal seen by rail commuting advocates as a must for the 1990's.

Originally, Sindles viewed the plan as serving non-residents only. Population growth and increasing highway traffic problems have combined to spur Mundelein officials to view the $90 million project in a new light. Political leaders in Buffalo Grove and Round Lake Beach jumped on the Wisconsin Central commuter line plan early. In fact, Mayor Carl Schrimpf of Round Lake Beach has been working to establish a station. Grayslake and Antioch officials also have professed interest.

As envisioned by Metra, individual municipalities along the line will be responsible for providing stations and suitable parking. That price tag would be approximately $18 million, certainly an amount large enough to give pause.

Even though rail commuting, like any transportation improvement, is a magnet for further growth and development, the rails still offer the best means for moving large numbers of people safely and cost efficiently. Mundelein officials are to be commended for helping get the Wisconsin Central proposal back on track again.

Schools of the future?

With two notable exceptions and barring any unforeseen salary strikes, the fall school term hereabouts is expected to resume in routine fashion. The notable exceptions are the unit districts at Round Lake and North Chicago, both reeling under financial stress of long standing.

Under close watch of state officials, officials of the two beleaguered districts are doing their best to stretch dollars so they can get the school doors open again. Unlike American business where doing more with less has been a way of life for quite some time, Round Lake and North Chicago educators aren't doing any posturing about "gritting it out." Less money bluntly will mean less of everything except class sizes which will be increased substantially. North Chicago has trimmed 21 certified staff positions and Round Lake has cut 16. With less teachers, typical classes will be pushing 30 pupils.

Struggling under the weight of underfunded federal pupils, North Chicago definitely will need outside help to remain a viable district. Hopes are high in the Round Lake district that debt restructuring plans will pave the way for future financial stability if voters enact a 25 cent increase in the building tax this fall and approve a 75 cent increase next year. Because of debt cost savings, the two rate increases will have no impact on individual real estate tax bills.

While the trappings of modern education may be shunted aside for financial reasons, it is important to know that basic education still will be offered in both districts. Students won't be cheated out of bread and butter subjects. There is the possibility that test scores might even improve in the absence of what education critics refer to as "frills." In this context, Round Lake and North Chicago schools may well be on the cutting edge of public schools of the future.

Boycott Time-Warner

A recent recording by rap performer Ice-T's titled "Cop Killer" clearly shows the performers' approval for cop killings with lyrics such as, "I'm 'bout to dust some cops off. Die, pig, die." Although Americans have a right to freedom of speech, filth such as this takes our freedom too liberally.

The purpose of a songwriter and/or performer is to provide enjoyable entertainment. What source of enjoyment comes from a song that approves of people killing cops? If it is Ice-T's intention to make such a repugnant recording, then it is up to the recording company, Time-Warner, to intervene. Songs of such an offensive and detrimental nature should not be allowed to be recorded.

Recording companies and their affiliates who permit the recording of such repulsive songs should be boycotted. I urge all readers to let Time-Warner know your objections to this recording by either boycotting their products or writing them with your opinions.

Gift tax penalizes giver

Thank you for printing the article, "Cradle to college-making gifts to minor children, grandchildren" in the June 26 issue.

I think the amount of money a person is allowed to give to any particular beneficiary during a year's time without a gift tax being assessed on it should be substantially increased.

If a person needs money to pay bills after having been laid off, or to pay for fire damage done to an uninsured house, or some other emergency, $10,000 is not very much money. If you're wealthy and would like to help the aforementioned individual, I think you should be allowed to do so without being penalized. It's your money and you should be able to share your good fortune with whomever you please.

Zion another Chernobyl?

The Zion nuclear plant is still on the federal watch list. The purpose of the announcement is similar to the tornado watch—some conditions are present which could spawn a nuclear disaster. This has been going on for 20 years. I can remember State Rep. John Matijevich sounding the alarm way back in the mid 70's only to be ridiculed by other office holders and the news media. If it takes 20 years and the problems still exist everyone in northern Illinois should be alarmed. Certainly everyone within a 15 mile radius of the plant site should have grave anxieties.

For those who might take comfort in reported successful emergency evacuation practice insuch a disaster, forget it! A serious auto accident brings our grid-lock traffic to a halt. And, how about our other state, county and municipal officials adding their voice of concern to Rep. Matijevich's. Maybe more political pressure is needed to correct those 20-year old problems before it is too late.

Such a nuclear disaster couldn't happen here. Tell it to the people of Chernobyl!

Clinton game; must convince mid-America

by BILL SCHROEDER

One thing about Gov. Bill Clinton. He's a gamer.

As a polished and practical politician, Clinton had to know that his carefully crafted "Southern Strategy" for a three-way race had been ripped to shreds earlier in the day by Ross Perot's petulant pull-out, yet the Arkansas native gamely plowed ahead with an acceptance speech that was in a word, "excellent," well delivered and obviously well rehearsed.

Clinton shifted gears only to "welcome to our party" the unexpectedly disenfranchised Perotites. As the governor of a third-rate state proclaiming his desire to take over as leader of the world's mightiest nation, Clinton's oratory sounded more than a little overblown. But then you don't expect modesty at a time like a presidential acceptance speech, especially from a Democrat.

At a well orchestrated convention, the Democrats showcased the gaggle of special interest groups that make up the party. At times, the focused appeals of the speakers were moving. In the whole, though, the overall tone of the convention---until Clinton's inspiring speech---came off as carping, whining and griping.

Wonder how moved the hard working, two-job middle American families were when they realize that recipients of the American Dream as articulated by Democrats at the convention include idlers, welfare cheats, malcontents and trouble-makers? By inescapable contrast, Bill Clinton reached out to the hard-working, productive middle class with its strong family values and admirable work ethic.

Who to believe? The candidate or the party chorus?

Now the stage is set for the main event. President Bush will be called upon to answer plenty of questions in the coming weeks. And rightly so. A lumbering economy, nagging unemployment, urban unrest, high crime, the deficit crisis and health care questions are among the problems marking his administration. Clinton has a broad target.

Surprisingly, Gov. Clinton came close to Congress bashing in his acceptance speech, sounding at times almost like a Republican. Was he trying to blunt GOP thunder? As Americans sort out their presidential choice in the coming weeks, they can well ponder the role Congress has played in causing the mess we're in besides assessing the president's responsibility.

If Bush and Clinton jointly rip the rip-off Congress, voters are apt to get the change message. In that case, then we'll really see some alterations that will affect the American Dream.

AIRPORT FIASCO---At an informal meeting of weekly newspaper publishers in Chicago, State Sen. Judy Baar Topinka (R-North Riverside), offered the opinion that the position of the Chicago Tribune in support of the Lake Calumet Airport as "totally irresponsible."

An independent Republican, Topinka described the Lake Calumet site as an "environmental disaster" with "dangerously over-lapping air space with O'Hare and Midway." Considering that 50,000 persons and 8,000 businesses would be uprooted, Topinka said there was "no way a responsible legislator" could support the south Chicago location.

Topinka happens to think that a third airport would be beneficial to Illinois commerce and Chicago area travelers, one located at a "grassy site" and a facility situated on the Indiana stateline "so it would have a regional flavor." The straight talking legislator said the third airport proposal probably will come up in the future in another form.

Good thing Lake County doesn't have to deal with this political hot potato. We've got more than our share of problems as it is.

FAST LEARNER---I was visiting with my neighbor Kamil Kowalewicz, 7, and wondering about the bright new yellow belt around the waist of his karate uniform. "That's for breaking a board," the future second grader remarked proudly. Kamil allowed that karate is pretty big in his life these days. "I really like it." Little League baseball and soccer competition might be in his future, but right now he's honing his self defense skills. The younger generation is amazing. At his age I was taking piano lessons. The most daring thing I did was ride my bike without handle bars.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY---A new member of the family has taken up residence, a four-month-old female German shepherd. Mostly black now, she's apt to get some tan markings as she gets older. Rather reserved, our new pet is getting acquainted cautiously. After her kennel experience, she's a stranger to family living. With some coaxing and patience, she enjoys making friends. All good signs for a new puppy. The hardest part will be deciding on a name for her.

Health care looming as national priority

by JOHN S. MATIJEVICH
State Representative

Besides the economy, unemployment, and the loss of jobs permanently in the workforce, the major issue nation-wide may be the high cost of health care, and the unavailability of it to 34 million Americans.

This year, Americans will spend more than $800 billion on health care. We aren't leading the world in many positive ways anymore, but we're out in front on health care costs. For all of that money, we are eighth in the world in life expectancy, 11 in maternal mortality, 18 in child mortality, and 22 in infant mortality.

Commentary

For persons over 65 years of age, the lack of health care coverage is low (1.2 percent) because of the widespread coverage of Medicare. But, an alarming statistic is that 14 percent of Americans under 65 don't have any health insurance, and another 30 percent have only minimal coverage. Those without health care coverage include almost 40 percent of unemployed workers 18 years or older and almost one-third of those living below poverty level.

Because Congress has failed to enact health care reform on the federal level—and it has been a federal issue since President Truman proposed universal health care in 1948—state legislatures across the country are taking initiatives. Twenty-four states have introduced measures patterned after the Canadian-style single payer plan.

In our just-concluded session, the health care controversy was much-discussed, but the issue never went beyond the committee stage. An expert on the Canadian system testified before a joint committee and a House Task Force on Health Care Reform. He was William Roberts of Canada's Parliament and he convinced many that the 26 year program is working. Opponents of that system tried to "poke holes" pointing to weaknesses, particularly waiting lists to receive health care. Public opinion polls, though, show that Canadians like their system where everyone, rich or poor, can receive equal access to doctors and hospitals.

In spite of all of that activity on the state level, no state has enacted a universal health care plan. Why? The states are in a fiscal bind and everyone knows that financing such a system will be costly. Of course, no one seems to mention the astronomic costs that we're paying now, and it is far from being universal health care.

My position on universal health care reform is that it should be done on the federal level. We've waited long enough. At a recent caucus, I said that it has been right and "healthy" to introduce measures in Illinois, and I have been a co-sponsor of many of the initiatives. The purpose, though, is to enliven the debate, to fuel the fires so that Congress gets serious with universal health care reform. State-by-state incremental reforms, I believe, would be irresponsible, patch-work efforts and not a meaningful program to provide health care for every American citizen.

Polls show that people overwhelmingly support a major overhaul of the country's health care system. Why, then, has Congress dragged its feet? Lawmakers usually react to something that is politically popular. For one thing, the American Medical Assn., and the insurance industry have intensely lobbied against reforms. Are their concerns for the people or the special interests they represent?

Social Security may not be perfect, but where would this country be without it? And, do you know how it started? In the early 30's, individual states introduced bills to help older persons at the doorstep of retirement. Those states "fueled the fire" and congress enacted the Social Security Act.

It has been said, "nothing is so powerful as an idea whose time has come." Universal health care on the federal level is an idea whose time has come!

Editor's note: State Rep. John Matijevich writes regularly about issues in the General assembly. He has represented Lake County for more than 25 years. He is a Democrat.

Letters

Is raise in my future

Editor:

Being a senior citizen, I'm not used to seeing an increase in my pay envelope very often. The only envelope I get is the one the Social Security people send me once a month. In fact, I really don't see that anymore. Somehow they are able to put my pittance in a computer and the phone company takes it to my bank. I am familiar with the cost of living thing that occurs once a year in January; it must be coming early this year.

I am convinced the Village of Round Lake Beach has some inside information that has prompted them to make a change in the cost of rubbish removal. A bill came in the mail asking me to send $30.56 to a company in Antioch. They stated it was for removing three cans of garbage once a week over a four month period. That in turn relates to a $7.56 charge per month. The sad part is I used to pay $2.50 per month. Does this mean I can expect an annual $60.72 raise in my Social Security income next month? If not, where do I cut back my spendable income to pay the nice garbage people? Hopefully, the village fathers have ironed out this problem with Social Security and I won't have to worry about where the money is coming from.

There are some other ugly rumors floating about. The grapevine has inferred our water rates are going to the moon. Something about Lake Michigan water and sewer changes has leaked out. Someone in our group said we could buy water on the desert cheaper than what it costs in Lake County. Now I can understand that; we wouldn't have a sewer charge in the desert.

Oh yes, time and progress has a price tag but this situation is not elective. I can forego buying a new car, a trip around the world and do without my ice cream on Saturday night. Do you know of any way we can do without water and stop the creation of garbage? Seems to me those price tags need to be marked down so everyone can afford a basic necessity of life. The young people should take heed. Who knows what they will have to contend with down to road.

GOP makes golf game of rich

GOLF ANYONE?

Calling all golfers! The Republican party wants you—for your handicap and money.

Yes, it's time for the Lake County Republican open. If you believe county GOP party Chairman Robert Churchill: the "success of this event...will allow our party to secure a Republican victory in November." And if you don't participate or play golf? Does that mean the Democrats will win this fall? It could be all your fault, implies ticket chairman Robert Neal.

Play will be at not one, but two golf courses. For $150 celebrity golfers will play Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth, enjoy breakfast, lunch and dinner and a celebrity reception at the posh club.

Regular golfers will ante up $75 to play Countryside Golf Course in Mundelein, eat breakfast and lunch there. Then, they car pool over to Midlane to rub elbows with the celebrities.

Those who don't play or want to shell out the $150 and $75 can still meet the celebs. Dinner tickets are $40. Republican precinct committeemen get a break—$30.

If interested, call GOP headquarters at (708) 680-6680.

POWER-FUL IDEAS

Following last week's column item, "Power line politics," the calls poured in.

One came from Lake Villa Mayor Joyce Frayer. "Everyone is targeting Commonwealth Edison," she said of a grass roots effort by CAUSE to halt a new high-voltage line from Round Lake Beach to Antioch. "Wisconsin Central Railroad should be quizzed," the mayor said. "If the railroad won't allow its right of way for the project, there will be no new power line."

Another caller was Lincolnshire environmentalist Ginny Nelson-Wulf. Her REACH organization wants us to recycle rather than landfill or incinerate. She thinks burning will be the choice of county decision makers.

"The incinerator will most likely be in a relatively rural part of the county with transportation access" she said.

"Incinerators produce, among other things, electricity that can be sold. Why not to Com Ed and its new Antioch-area power line?"

Opposition to the power line is being mounted by CAUSE (Citizens against unsafe electricity). Mostly Loon Lake area residents, they are affectionately called by friends and foes alike as the "Loon Lake Loonies."

BANK STORY IS NEWS

Libertyville made the news again. It's in the mid-July issue of the National Law Journal. The cover features a picture of the failed Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan.

Inside is a lengthy story about all of the failed thrifts in Illinois—five of them in the 10th Congressional Dist. represented by John Porter (R-Wilmette). In addition to Arlington Heights, the others are Home Federal of Waukegan, First Federal of Zion, Horizon Savings of Wilmette and Libertyville Savings. Libertyville is the thrift where legal action has been started to recover the loss. The statute of limitations will soon expire against the others and hundreds more across the land. The story questions why.

Could two members of the president's cabinet and a congressman have anything to do about this? Michael Madigan, secretary of Agriculture, was a director of the failed Olympic Federal Savings in Berwyn. Edward Derwinski, secretary of Veteran's Affairs, was on the board of United Savings in Aurora before it went under. And Congressman Henry Hyde was on the board of Clyde Federal Savings in North Riverside.

Although lots of people are quoted, clearly, the source of the story is banking consultant Tim Anderson of Libertyville. He's the hometown zealot who wants to see justice done.

T.V. blues

I just sat down to watch one of the two shows that I watch during the day, and, as usual, cable is out. I am getting angry. I wish that the cable company would get their act together. Instead, all we see is fuzz.

Profession should be legal

This is in response to the woman in last week's paper who gets no support from Libertyville Township and is willing to sell her body. I hope that she is young and beautiful so that she can make a lot of money. What we should really do is legalize prostitution so that they can go out and do it without fear of getting caught. I think that it is time that we make legal the oldest profession in the world. We would have a lot better chance of combatting venereal disease if they were licensed and examined monthly. And the girls could make a little money and the guys wouldn't have to go to Chicago to cheat on their wives. Let's bring Illinois up to date.

Youth speaks out

Greetings from afar, yet so near I could be in your back yard. I am communicating to you from Grayslake, town o' fun and enjoyment. All, but a few of you who will hear me out, will think that I am just a bitter teenager who doesn't know what the hell I am talking about. Well, as much as I hate it, I am human, and this is how I feel. The United States claims to give freedom to its people, then why are its people told that every other form of government is wrong? Morally mistaken, politically incorrect, and more negative thoughts of the sort. It is history in books that brainwashes children into believing that there is only only correct nation, only its government will prevail. Why doesn't its government tell its people the truth and let them decide for themselves? Isn't that what a democracy is?

T.V. more important than opinion

Yeah, I think that your Lipservice is a waste of paper and I think that you should put back your television listing which you took out because it cost too much.

Where do I find more like it?

Hi, just wanted to say that I really enjoyed the Mundelein museum program on July 4. Does anybody know if any of these entertainments are out for hire or who was in charge of the program? I liked them better than the show on the main stage. Thanks.

Pay cuts for teacher

I live in the Round Lake school district and the one thing that has occurred to me reading all of these newspaper articles about the ongoing financial trouble of the school district, is that Superintendent Sherman makes an awful lot of money and I think that one thing that would help symbolically and financially would be for him to take a pay cut. I don't think he should be paid that much money, especially since his school district is going down the tubes.

In who we trust?

It is in no wonder why people want "In God we trust" put on money. Money is their god and what they worship.

Budget's there for reason

Hello. First of all, I would like to say how much I enjoy your column, Lipservice. Since it has been instituted, it is the first thing that I look for in the paper. It gives your readers thoughts to think over. I know I do. One is in regard to the Round Lake School referendum. I am against. I feel that there is a budget and we should learn to live within the guidelines, regardless. This not only applies to our home, but to our society and our government also. I have been a taxpayer and a resident of this area for years. I saw in the beginning, it slipping away. People just don't care. They just want what they want regardless of the consequences of the future. I also feel that the Round Lake communities should have been consolidated a long time ago. Round Lake Beach resident. Thank you.

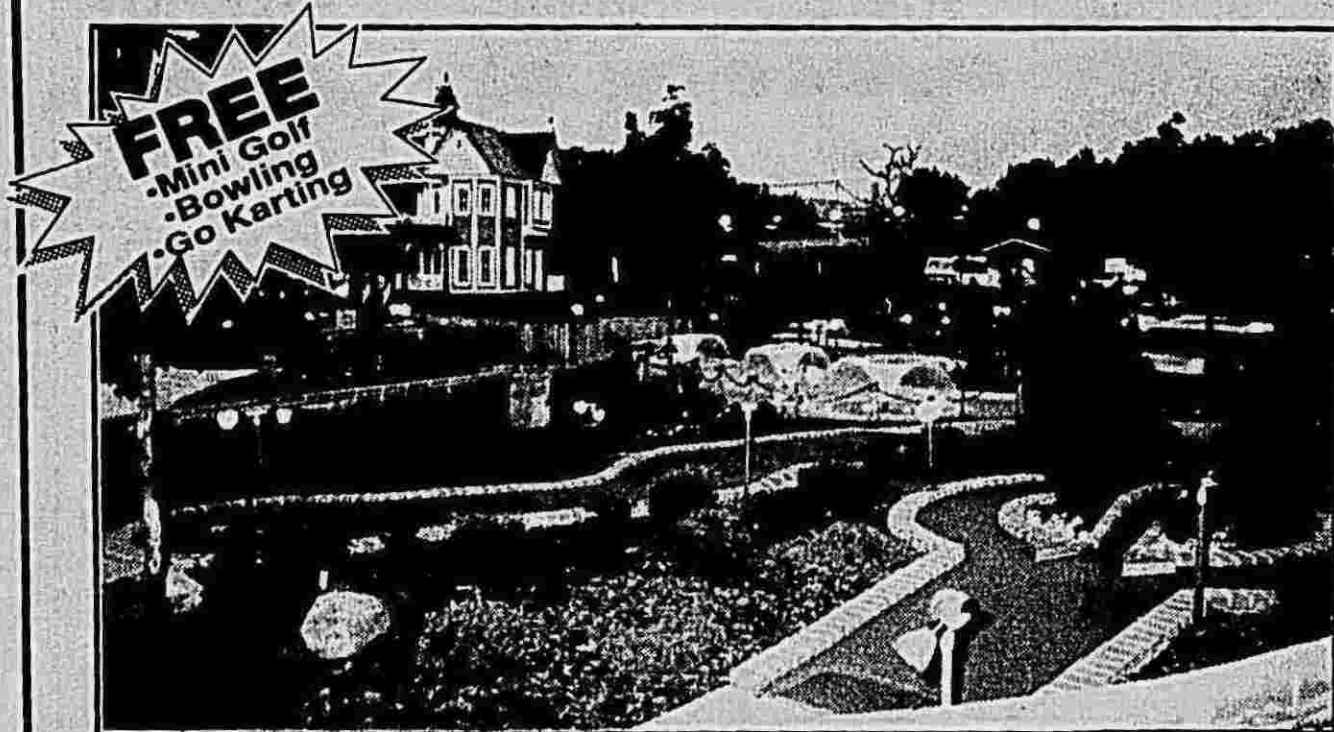

Water from nature

Hello. I have a little bit of a gripe. According to statistics, Hainesville is the poorest village in Lake County. No wonder, we get the water from Round Lake Park at the highest rate at $6.54 per 1,000 gallons. Round Lake Park in the past had the nicest water in the area, now we have one of the poorest types of water. Each individual household has their own waste collector. And we pay our own sewage. Should this continue, Hainesville might have to go back to outhouses, rain barrels and doing the laundry in the lakes.

Kathi's Musicians'—instruction at higher level of artistry

by RHONDA VINZANT
Lakeland Newspapers

If you've heard the soothing sound of tinkling ivories while traveling down Center Street in Grayslake this summer, you've had the good fortune to hear Lake County native Kathleen W. Cizewski's piano instruction or the 30-year piano student working on an original arrangement.

In the heart of Grayslake's downtown business district at 130 Center Street sits a large, older house that since May 26 has been home to Kathi's Musicians' Center which boast the motto "music instructions offered at a higher level of artistry in performance, theory and arranging."

Cizewski, 38, is not a newcomer to the art of piano instructing nor to Lake County. She began teaching piano lessons at the age of 16, just eight years after she began taking lessons. It was a pursuit that continues to this day and that has lead her to a masters in piano performance from De Paul University and to college-level teaching. She has been a staff member at the College of Lake County for 21 years and has also taught a Harper College.

Having spent so many years teaching on the college staff level, Kathi's Musician Center is Cizewski's first piano studio although she has previously rented several to give private lessons. The studio is a result of a change in events related to her teaching position at CLC which limited the job to being strictly part-time.

Cizewski remains on the staff to teach all the college's piano class offerings. Many of her students over the years have received first and second place awards as well as superior and excellent rating in numerous national evaluation competitions and festivals.

"I've been programmed to do this all my life," said Cizewski. "I grew-up doing this."

Cizewski began playing the piano by ear in the dance studio where she took lessons when she was six. At the age of eight she began formal lessons and practiced for the first year and a half on a neighbors piano before her family was able to purchase one for the home.

"I got so involved with music. At the dance studio, I was surrounded with dancing and music and I always enjoyed it," said Cizewski. "Once I discovered it, I never let go."

By the age of 11, she had her first job playing music at a dance studio and began doing church organ work at St. Joseph's in Round Lake at the age of 12 with the encouragement of then Associate Minister Raymond Skriba. At 15, she became an apprentice to a music teacher for a year and by 16 was commuting from her Round Lake home and renting space in Libertyville to teach lessons.

Cizewski truly believes that music chooses you, not vice versa. "Music is my best form of communication, I have to get the expression out," she said. "It's a universal language. Everyone has feelings and you can touch anyone with a piece of music without saying a word."

For Cizewski music is also a spiritual expression. "It's a gift and a blessing as it is," she said. "I'm very close to my Catholic faith, spirituality doesn't get far away from music. In each you work with the whole person. As an expression and as an outlet, music is a spiritual help for many. To me, the two are not separate."

Today, Cizewski continues to play the organ at St. Joseph's; it is a continuation of the first job she held as organist there at the age of 12 in 1966.

Because of music's power to affect, she see it as "one of the richest values you can have." She recommends that children study music to instill the values and to teach the discipline of taking lessons, practicing and to experience the achievement that comes with growing with the music.

"Music is such a big part of the world. You can't get away from it," Cizewski said. "Studying music can help you to raise your appreciation level for (the art) and to understand what it takes to achieve in the art. Music can help you relate to other people, its a growth experience."

Kathi's Musicians Center currently offers lessons in piano, organ and the keyboard. The current one-room studio will soon expand to three with construction underway in the basement on two more completely sound-proof studios. "I have some other piano teachers that have expressed an interest in renting space and hope to have teachers of other instruments as well," Cizewski said.

The popularity of the keyboard has increased the interest in piano playing according to Cizewski. "Keyboards and technology have created an expansion for interest," she said. "They create a variety of sounds that motivate the student to want to learn more. They are also very beneficial in the instructional process because students can record their work and play it back and hear the progress and the problems. They are also portable enough to take anywhere to practice."

Kathi's Musician Center will host an open house, July 25 from 3 to 9 p.m. for commercial and residential clients. Offered at the open house will be a sale on Cizewski's recording of more than 100 selections in six separate albums, each one hour concerts of Christmas, sacred, classical, popular, Cizewski's arrangements and in concert music.

Give yourself a financial report card, estimate net worth

Do you really know how you are doing financially? Do you know if your financial health has improved this year, as compared to last year or five years ago? If not, the Illinois CPA Society recommends that you give yourself a financial report card by assessing your net worth.

Your net worth is the total value of everything you own reduced by any outstanding liabilities. Calculating your net worth may take a few hours or more, but the time you invest will give you a big payoff—peace of mind from knowing you have a firm handle on your financial situation.

CPAs also point out that knowledge of your net worth can help you in budgeting, in planning for retirement, and in devising a tax strategy. Most of all, it can prevent you from falling victim to extravagant or excessive spending habits that can diminish your savings and take a toll on your financial and emotional health.

To get a clear picture of your financial situation, it's best to pick a specific date around which you can organize your financial data. Use this same date annually when you sit down to assess your net worth. It can be mid-year or the end of the year or even the first day of next month. The point is that you select a time frame that enables you to get a snapshot of your financial picture, recognizing, of course, that your finances do fluctuate from day to day.

Set up a simple balance sheet that enables you to list your assets on one side and your liabilities on the other. List all your assets. Begin by identifying how much money you have in your checking and savings accounts. Don't forget to include certificates of deposit (CDs).

If you have a bank safe-deposit box that you haven't opened in years, now is also the time to take a look at what you locked away. You may find hidden sources of cash in savings bonds, life insurance policies, corporate bonds, stock certificates, and other documents you put away for safekeeping.

Money you've socked away in Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs), a 401(k) plan, Keoghs, and other pension plans should also be listed on the asset side of your balance sheet.

Also, estimate the total market value of your securities and investments as of the date the balance sheet is compiled. Include stocks and bonds, as well as mutual-fund shares, Treasury issues and money-market investments. Refer to the newspaper, or check with your banker and stockbroker to help you assess the current market value.

Then, look closer to home for your assets. If you own your own house, list its current market value, referring to prevailing sales figures in your neighborhood as a guideline. Finally, take stock of your possessions and determine those that have a significant resale value. Include in this category jewelry, antiques, artwork, and collectibles, such as rare coins, sports cards and stamps. Be realistic in assessing their value. Estimating inflated prices now won't help later on if you find yourself financially strapped and ready to sell these items.

If you've added up all your assets and arrived at a pretty hefty number, don't sit back in your easy chair just yet or plan to purchase that 40-foot sailboat you've always wanted. Take a hard look at what you owe—to banks, to credit-card companies, and even to relatives.

At the top of the liability column for most families is the outstanding mortgage on their primary residence. Since consumer interest is no longer deductible, many families have taken out home-equity loans to finance everything from home improvements to college education. If you have such a loan, be sure to identify the current balance, and when you plan to repay it.

Then determine other installment loans outstanding for big ticket items, such as a car or new furniture, and carefully review your credit-card debt. Include this debt in your liability column, along with what you owe to doctors, dentists, accountants, and other professionals whose services you use.

Add all your assets and liabilities separately and then subtract your total liabilities from your total assets. The resulting number is your net worth. This figure should guide you in altering your spending and saving habits. If your net worth this year turns out to be negative, don't despair. A fair number of Americans owe more than they own, and this doesn't mean that disaster is at your doorstep. However, as CPAs point out, it does mean that some belt-tightening along with some sound financial planning may be in order so that next year your financial report card shows improvement.

Panel discussion

Arlon Elser, program director at the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, will participate in a not-for-profit fundraising panel at the College of Lake County at 2:30 p.m. on July 27. The panel discussion, titled "How to Maximize Private Gifts," is open to representatives for not-for-profit agencies. For information call CLC at (708) 223-6601, ext. 400.

New insurance company for 'Equispecial' needs

Years of involvement with horses have prompted the formation of a new horse related business for a local entrepreneur. "After all these years, we decided that we should find a niche for ourselves in some horse related field," says entrepreneur Pam Osbourne.

As a result, a new Equine Insurance agency is making its debut this month. The name, "Equispecial," is a trademark of her daughter Kendra's monthly Equine Column, "Equispecial for Kids" seen in the Illinois Equine Market. "It has been a family affair from the beginning. Kendra has even designed the logo for the business."

Osbourne plans to be a full service equine agency, offering a variety of horse related insurance products—informing horse owners of the many options available to them. In addition to mortality, there are such products as major medical and surgical insurance. Insurance is available to all breeds, from race horses to ponies. For more information contact Osbourne at Equispecial Insurance at (708)495-8806.

Despite being located in the Midwest, the brand new Dockers Restaurant, located at 33 West Grand Ave., on Pistakee Lake, in Fox Lake, offers a unique beach front atmosphere when the weather is awesome, and a world-class restaurant all-year round.

New owner Dino Marvelas, who reopened the former Pier Club as Dockers on June 1, offers a truly international cuisine, that specializes in Italian treats.

"Our pasta and Chicago-style deep dish pizza is outstanding," said Dockers' Manager Melinda Conrad. "We have a great format and have so much to offer."

The dine-in or carry-out menu gives lovers of various types of foods the opportunity to eat at the same table.

Dockers offers the chance to enjoy excellent food, great atmosphere and a chance to try one of Dockers' special frozen cocktails or ice-cream drinks.

"We have a frozen cocktail machine and plenty of recipes," said Conrad.

The Dockers Restaurant offers its patrons plenty of parking for either their car or their boat, and gives a lot of people the chance to soak up the gorgeous weather in their outdoor seating area on the shore of Pistakee Lake.

"We're building a 21,000-square-foot deck in addition to the present outdoor seating we already have," said Conrad.

In addition to the outdoor seating, this year round restaurant offers plenty of indoor seating, an atrium overlooking the lake, and a 50-person party room that can be reserved for that special occasion.

An all-you-can eat Sunday brunch, which runs from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., offers a huge buffet table and an order chef to make a special omelet or egg order.

Take precautions when the phone rings

The most natural thing to do when the phone rings is to answer it. Yet for more and more people, simply answering the phone can become a terrifying experience. These people become victims of harassing bill collectors, pranksters, or sometimes, psychologically imbalanced individuals who derive pleasure from intimidating innocent strangers. Another category of telephone offender falls under the "ex-lover" heading in which the ex-husband/wife/boyfriend/girlfriend decides that Ma Bell is the best way to reach out and punish someone. Of course the simple answer is to just hang up, but what do you do if they keep calling back? Again the simple answer is to unplug the phone, but what do you do if you have a responsibility to answer the phone. If you are a policeman, fireman, real estate salesman, doctor, lawyer, clergy, or if you have an elderly or disabled person depending on you, you can't afford to unplug your phone.

A lot of people use their answering machines to screen calls. A great deal of people I know refuse to talk to an answering machine. These are the people that account for all the "hang ups" on the machine. An obscene or harassing message on an answering machine can be psychologically worse than a message given in person, especially when the recipient replays the message over and over. The one benefit of an answering machine is that you have good evidence for use in prosecution in the event the caller's identity becomes known.

We also recommend that when you record your message, give as little information as possible. For example, a good message would be, "I'm sorry, but no one is available to answer your call, but if you leave a message we'll return your call as soon as possible." Notice the "we!" Even if you live alone, don't advertise the fact to everyone who can ring your phone. Not to be a sexist, but if you are female living alone, consider using a male voice to greet callers.

Some machines offer electronic greetings while others have electronic voice altering features available. We suggest you have a friend record your messages and save the added expense of these features. An example of what not to use as a message would be: "You have reached the Johnson family. Barb, Trish, Billy, John and Nancy are on vacation and won't be back until Sept. 4. Please leave a message at the tone...Beep." Don't give the names of your children (or even your name) to whoever calls your answering machine, and never, never leave a message indicating that you will be gone from the home for any specific time frame. Simply leaving a message like, "Hi, this is Carol. I had to run to the store but I should be home by 2 p.m. Please leave a message," gives a stranger way too much information.

Teach young children what information is appropriate to give out over the phone. When someone calls and says "Who is this?" ask them "Who are you calling?" and before you give any information, make sure you know who you are giving it to. While it may sound like you are teaching your children to be rude by asking "Who are you calling?" consider how well-mannered it is to call someone on the phone and say "Who is this?" Asking who is calling can be done in a polite manner. The risk of offending someone surprised by calling a wrong number is greatly outweighed by the need to provide your family with privacy and security.

Illinois Bell has a variety of features available to certain areas. These include caller I.D., call screening, call tracing and lastly, trap and trace. Trap and trace is available on a limited basis and only to persons who are the victims of obscene or harassing phone calls. A police report is also required prior to obtaining trap and trace. For more information on Illinois Bell services call 1-800-244-4444 and talk to a real live customer service representative. For a recording of available services and to find out if that service is available in your area, call 1-800-678-9868.

There are products on the market that will only allow certain people to activate your telephone. Through either a code access system or multi number recognition system, these devices will not even allow your phone to ring unless you have given the caller your access code or programmed the caller's telephone number into the system. Both systems offer instant code changeability.

The Lineminder is one such product and is available through LM Communications Corp., 997 Senate Dr., Dayton, Ohio 45459, telephone 1-800-743-6005. Another is the Private Secretary, which is available through Hammacher & Schlemmer in Chicago. The Lineminder retails for $89.94 and the Private Secretary retails for $350, according to the manufacturers.

Harassing, vulgar and annoying calls can stem from social deviants, bill collectors, juvenile pranksters, automated dialing systems and sometimes even the phone company's diagnostic equipment is responsible for a "hang up" call. Whatever the cause, you now know that there are laws in place to deal with the offenders of phone crimes as well as telephone company policies and procedures to help safeguard the customer.

We hope that this information will keep someone from suffering in silence because they didn't know what to do. We also hope that common sense and good judgement will provide the majority of the security that you will ever need. When that is not the case, your police department and telephone company stand ready to assist you.

If you have any questions or comments, we would love to hear from you. If there is a subject you would like to see addressed, write to Deputy Martin E. Smith, Lake County Sheriff's Dept., Community Services Division, 25 S. Utica St., Waukegan 60085, or call (708)360-5830 and ask for either Martin or Lt. Steve Towns-end.

Less than half of schools join gun-ban movement

by DAN BERNARD
Lakeland Newspapers

Five school districts in Lake County have signed on with more than 40 from throughout the collar counties to send a strong message on gun control. Organizers this week announced that 43 districts had joined an effort to lobby for a total ban on handguns at a state convention of school boards in the fall.

Joining the lobbying effort from Lake County were Kildeer-Countryside School District 96, Lake Villa District 41, Libertyville District 70, Wauconda District 118 and Oak Grove School District in Green Oaks. Each district's school board voted to co-sponsor a resolution that asks the Illinois Association of School Boards to "vigorously support legislation aimed at banning the sale, possession and...use of handguns."

The 43 districts represented fewer than half of the over 100 districts approached by organizers.

One of the resolution's authors, however, said many school boards might have preferred to wait till the convention in November to offer their support.

"A lot of the boards wait until convention time to approve or disapprove of resolutions," said John Rocap, school board member of Glenview Elementary School District 34. Glenview officials originated the resolution last year in response to the rising incidence of gun violence involving schoolchildren, and began soliciting co-sponsors in May.

And Glenview Board Secretary Gay Meyer, said she thought the response was "very good."

"It's a good response to this kind of thing," Meyer said. Co-sponsors continued to roll in this week, Meyer added, but the deadline for submitting resolutions has already passed.

The resolution asks the school board association to adopt the resolution into its policy platform, similar to the platform of a political party. The association would thus commit itself to lobbying the state Legislature to pass gun-control laws.

Some who passed on supporting the resolution said they felt it was too extreme in asking for a complete ban. Kildeer School Board Member Irving Schaimberg predicted the resolution would be watered down at the convention, to be held in Springfield.

Civil rights provision of ADA takes effect, July 26

by RHONDA VINZANT
Lakeland Newspapers

A key provision regarding employment of persons with disabilities goes into effect July 26, the second anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

After that date, businesses with 25 or more employees may not discriminate against qualified people with disabilities. Employers must make reasonable accommodations for qualified applicants or employees with disabilities, including modifying work stations and equipment.

"This provision is the real civil rights purpose of the ADA," said Julianne Disney Program Director of the Lake County Center for Independent Living. "The provision states that in no way will employers discriminate against a person with a disability in the application or hiring process."

The ADA is viewed as the most important civil rights law since the Civil Rights Act of 1964. It extends to people with disabilities the same civil rights protections given to others on the basis of race, sex and national origin. Under the law, persons with disabilities must be granted the same access to employment, public accommodations, transportation, government services and telecommunications as those without disabilities.

"We have been gratified with the level of cooperation shown not just by government and business, but by all segments of society," noted Audrey McCrimon, Director of the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services (DORS). "While there was a lot of debate before the ADA was enacted, now most people are doing their best to comply with its provisions."

A major resource that can help businesses understand the ADA and compliance issues is the state's network of 18 centers for Independent Living. CILs are community-based not-for-profit, non-residential organizations whose governing boards are controlled by people with disabilities. "We are doing everything possible to assist business with ADA requirements from consulting with government bodies or employers to assisting in writing a transitional plan that takes into account reasonable accommodations, barrier removal and program accessibility," Disney said.

CILs advocate for options that increase independence on a community, state and national level. They also help people increase their skills and abilities, including job hunting and interviewing skills, to promote independent living and provide public awareness regarding the abilities and capabilities of people with disabilities.

By July 26, employers are also required to have their personnel staff educated on the ADA and how to handle the job applications from individuals with disabilities and accommodation of them. Employers are expected to be reevaluating all job descriptions for discriminating language.

The Lake County Center for Independent Living was opened last July and is located at 706 E. Hawley in Mundelein.

Two years later the provision will include employers with 15 to 24 workers.

Association of Greater Chicago and Lake County and Cyrus Development and will benefit the Oncology/Hematology Center at Condell Medical Center.

going away on vacation this summer. If you put your mail on vacation hold with the Post Office, you had better check it is on vacation hold. We just got back from a two week vacation and I had put my mail on vacation hold and, lo and behold, we got home and they lost our mail. They did not put it on vacation hold and they have no idea where my mail is. This is our United States Postal Service. I live in Grayslake. Thank you.

Goodie advice for Grass Lake

I reside in Antioch. It is quite obvious that the caller who wanted to rename Hometown Goodies to "Grass Lake Goodies" does not read the column on a normal basis. Hometown Goodies does not just highlight Grass Lake happenings. If the caller really wants more coverage of the village proper, why doesn't he or she pick up the phone and call the number listed in the column each week. It seems to me that the caller does not want nor see a need for any more coverage than provided in Hometown Goodies. On the other hand, the caller obviously needs something to gripe about. I think what would help is to call the Lizard, give her a tid-bit or two and then sit back and enjoy reading Hometown Goodies like the rest of us.

Job well done

Hello, I am calling from Round Lake Beach. I'd like to first mention that I think that this Lipservice is wonderful. This is the second time that I called. I just noticed that my call from last week is in this week's paper. I was edited and I want to thank you because I know that I rambled and it needed editing. You did a great job. And also, I wanted to make a suggestion. Maybe sometime in the future you could have another column where people could ask questions and you could help them find the answers about the community and the people running it. Thank you.

A word on his behalf

Hi, I was just reading the Gurnee paper and I saw an article that Andy Jones of the Lindenhurst Police Department was suspended. Well, I'd just like to talk on his behalf. I have dealt with him on one occasion and I felt that he was a gentleman. I think that someone overreacted a little bit.

Thanks for beautiful pageant

Hi, I just watched the Antioch pageant on cable the other day and was truly, truly impressed that every aspect of it seemed to be very professionally done. The stage decor was beautiful, the music and the lights provided a wonderful effect. The acts that they had in between were of good quality. The speakers did an excellent job of keeping the flow of the show. The whole production looked as if a great deal of hard work and planning went into it. I think a lot of credit was due. I think that Olga Demsky did a great job. She put together pageants in the past, but she really outdid herself this year. My hat goes off to her and the people that helped her. I am from Antioch. Thank you and goodbye.

HOW information

I think this column is great. It is a great way for people to get things out and let people know what is going on. I just want to give a public thank you to all the people who helped with the Homeowners Organization of Wildwood picnic that was held on July 12. Even with the rain and everything, they were there cooking hotdogs and goofing around and making the day a lot funner. I also wanted all the Wildwood residents to know that they are more than welcome to join HOW. If you would like more information on joining HOW, call 223-0176. Again thanks to all of those who made that Sunday a little bit brighter. Thanks, bye-bye.

Get into a classroom

This is in response to the person who called in the "Teachers stop crying." I am happy that this person has come out of its cage and maybe after a while they will learn what is going on. Maybe they will stop in a classroom to see what is really going on in education today.

Pro-lifers not in my shoes

Not all abortions are for the convenience of the parents or for unwanted children. My son had severe deformities and lacked a brain. We had a child with very special needs. And we know that life is very precious. But, there are times when inducing labor can save the life of the mother. My son's head was the size of a three month old baby and I was only in my sixth month. When I speak one to one with the Right to Lifers, they say that they don't mean people in my circumstances, they meant people who have abortions for this reason or for that. Who are we to judge? I'm sure that many Right to Lifers have never been in our shoes. They always say that they would adopt a special child. Well, if that is true, why do we have so many special needs children who are not adopted?

Cure for welfare system

Hi, I would just like to say that I am tired of people who whine and complain about the welfare system and the unemployment and there's no jobs. If there are no jobs, why in every paper in the businesses advertising there are Help Wanted ads. There is work out there if people are willing to get off their butts and look for it, instead of depending on free money from the state. I think the state should give them one year of welfare payments and then take them off of it completely. They could take the money and put a down payment on a house, and get their life started with a one time, lump payment. Thank you.

Taxes needed

Yes, I am calling about the person who called in "No new taxes." I want that person to think about what they said. I am a student at Round Lake and my brother will be soon. That person must not realize how much trouble our school is really in. Sure, they just bought a house. But, they must not have school-aged children. I just hope that before the election in November, they realize how many children that they are hurting. I am sorry they feel this way and I am very angry that they feel this way. Please, vote yes. Thank you.

Where is money?

Yeah, hi. I am from Round Lake and I am wondering if the Round Lake Schools are in such difficulty, where is all the lottery money from the state going? It is supposed to go to the common school fund. So how come it is not going to the schools that are in trouble? When the state lottery makes millions a year, yet claim to be helping the common man. It doesn't make any sense to me. Thank you.

Lake Zurich has wrong plans

Hi, this is to the village of Lake Zurich. Grow up! You let too many houses be built too fast, now you have water problems. So what do you do? You tear down one of the smallest parks that you have, but one of the few pretty places that you have big, mature trees. And you stick a water tower there. Come on, this isn't a second rate village anymore. Grow up a little bit. You're going to lose everything that you have and just be another little suburb with lots of housing.

Why videos and mufflers?

Hi, I'm calling from Round Lake Heights. I want to know what is going on. Every place you turn around, there is a muffler place or a video place. Now the old McDonalds is going to be a video place, now the Ponderosa is going to be a muffler place. We have a lot of sandwich places, we have really built up. It is fantastic. But, couldn't we get in a steak house or something? Is everybody just sitting home watching videos and putting mufflers on their cars? Just had to get this off my chest. Thank you.

Throwing to second

Indians adjust, prepare for state tourney effort

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

More than one Reed-Randle Indian found himself in a position he was not used to. The watchwords for the six games in 48 hours: adjust or no stretch drive for the playoffs.

"We needed this one to stay in the hunt for the state tournament," co-manager Chris Stranowicz said.

The baseball marathon started with an 11-5 loss to Lake Forest. But see you soon, Travellers, as the two teams met some 30 hours later. In between, the Indians fell to Highland Park 7-6 in a suspended game, won a darkness-shortened second game 12-7. Lake Forest thumped Gurnee 11-3 in the first game Sunday, but some heroics from Todd Staehle enabled the Indians to pull out the nightcap 9-8.

Through it all, or almost all, it was Jim Cooney behind the plate. Yes, Carmel followers, Cooney catching. A pitching standout at the College of Lake County and headed to University of Texas-Arlington on a baseball scholarship, it was the first time Cooney caught since little league in Grayslake.

Staehle's triple and aggressive baserunning meant the difference in the second game against Lake Forest.

"I was looking for a fastball over the plate. It was high and up and I hit it good. I'm just starting to get my confidence up," Staehle said.

On the wild pitch which ended the battle: "The ball was hit off the plate. I thought it would bounce right back to him (the catcher), but then I saw he could not find it," Staehle said.

"This was my first time in relief. It is a lot easier when the guys are hitting like this," Chris Stranowicz said.

He came into the game after Highland Park had snatched a 4-0 cushion. By the end, arguments turned to high-fives as an eight-run fifth gave the Indians a 12-7 win.

Bill Stranowicz led the way with three hits, including a two-run homer for the five-run lead. "I just try and drive the ball in this park. I always try and get a certain feel at the plate. I'm in a good groove," he said after going six-for-eight.

Brian Geraghty and Shawn Stanek proved to be too much for the Indians in the first game. Geraghty, of Lake Forest, was four-for-four and Stanek, of Libertyville, had two hits. The rest of the lineup was held to two hits, but 10 walks did the visitors in.

Reed-Randle quickly regained its hitting style in the first inning of game two. The Indians scored three runs on five hits.

Reed-Randle doubled its lead in the fourth with a key double by Steve Karolewicz.

Lake Forest countered with an eight-spot in the fifth. Rick Hyde, Stanek and Brian Geraghty had successive doubles. Geraghty was out trying to steal second. Rob Garafolo gets credit for that assist. He had come into Cooney's rediscovered spot behind the plate.

Sunday night volleyball to pay October dividends

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Jessica Goulding and the rest of the Stevenson I volleyball team were collectively worried.

As Warren I volleyball team continued to challenge Stevenson, the unthinkable started to creep into her heads. Could the Patriots be on the verge of losing their first summer league volleyball game?

Tradition, though, has a way of stopping that. As Goulding, a senior-to-be at the volleyball powerhouse learned from the likes of Courtney DeBolt and Robyn Schenk before her, she rallied the forces and the Pats escaped unscathed in a 22-game league season.

"Warren gave us the most competitive match, but we brought the team together like it was last year and we worked together," Goulding said.

For the record, the Patriots prevailed 15-6, 15-12. Warren I challenged the Pats in the second game, coming as close as 9-7 and 14-11.

Only one side of the bleachers was pulled out the final night of the Sunday night league, a 10-team grouping which worked on digs, serves and kills while friends worked, barbecued or watched "60 Minutes".

"We lost nine kids to graduation. Everybody thinks we will be down this year, but we've won 52 in a row in summer volleyball," Stevenson Coach Schenk said. Stevenson is seeking its third straight Elite Eight spot. The Pats won 36 of 40 matches last year.

Schenk coordinated the league along with Warren Twp. High Coach Felicia Moscatelli.

"The biggest concern is not just winning, but having the proper attitude," Schenk said.

"It's an opportunity to gain more experience at the varsity level," Moscatelli said.

Teams play two games with games counting toward final standings. Head coaches do not coach the matches, as some have appointed coaches.

"We were expecting to finish around .500," Ken Anderson, who guided the Carmel team, said. The Corsairs served notice they could be right up there with Libertyville and Stevenson with an 18-4, second-place record.

Lake Zurich, a team which won only one match in its new Fox Valley Conference surroundings last year, was 14-10. The rest of the standings: Warren I gained second at 17-5; Libertyville used a strong last night to finish at 11-9; Stevenson II 10-12; Niles West 9-13; Stevenson III 8-14; Antioch, which won a regional last year, 6-8 and Zion-Benton/Round Lake 5-19.

Plans are to expand to 16 teams in 1993. Moscatelli saw several players improve their games. "Karen Hartman made a great deal of improvement in her game," the coach said. Hartman, a senior, played on the club team Magic this summer.

"We have a great group of freshmen coming up," Schenk said.

Stevenson coach Schenk said the situation reminds him of the first supersectional year, 1989. That year the Pats were not expected to challenge.

The Patriots have been arising at some early hours to put in some camp time coupled with night league seasons. High schoolers go from 6 to 8 a.m. "I have to get up at 5:15 a.m.," Goulding said.

The Sunday night atmosphere may have been more relaxed than a sectional battle in October, but that does not mean the players took the matches lightly. Libertyville was down 9-1 in game one but rallied for a 15-12 win over Carmel. The Corsairs bounced back to win the second game 15-9.

The munchies provided by the Stevenson High volleyball players were long gone when Warren II faced Lake Zurich. Only a few hardy volleyball fans were on hand as 10 p.m. approached to see Michelle Reeder serve to cap a six-point Warren II comeback for a 15-15 tie. Jill Walker then served out the game for a 17-15 Warren II victory.

Then it was time to enjoy summer, as league players know they will have one up on their foes when practice starts. That's 28 days away — 8 a.m., Aug. 17.

CLC coach Garcia sets July 25 spiker workshop

Albright looks to fill gap in stars' baseball year

Imagine you are an 18-year-old baseball player.

You've just completed an all-star career for your high school, earning all-conference honors. That letter still is shiny.

If one is talented and a little bit lucky, he can end up like the Craig and Derek Sheltons, Zac Adams, Dave Farrow and Joe Keller. All are or will be playing Division I ball. But what about after the 18th birthday. If not fortunate enough to be in the minors, players have to choose between trying for a Shoreline team or starting their softball career.

Jim Albright would like to change all that.

"We were talking amongst the parents the last two weeks and all of the players will be going on to college ball. But that is only a 30-game season and that is over in May. There has to be some place for them to play in the summer," Albright said.

A summer-league team for those over 18 would take the place of watching others, including relatives, play.

Albright, of Johnsburg, had just completed a successful trip to Missouri with the Fox Valley Hurricanes. The all-star team won the Ellisville Mo. tourney again. The squad featured area standouts Matt Beitzel, Chris Fry, Ryan Harmon and Zac Adams of Libertyville; Craig Shelton of Warren; Dan Dufour and Bucky Albright of Johnsburg. The squad came home with the big first-place trophy.

"We thought we had pretty decent pitching and a good, strong rotation," Albright said.

The offense was not too shabby, either, with 35 runs while the opposition was held to five. Leading the way at the plate was Fry with a .433 average. Beitzel was the other .400 plus hitter, at .412. Craig Shelton had a .364 mark, bolstered by a strong title game. Woodstock's Steve Beard was at .294 with six RBIs; Albright .284 with five RBIs.

"It was a great three-year run," Albright said of the titles.

Adams' family drove down to the St. Louis area site from Champaign after watching sister Arian help the North Shore scholastic volleyball team earn a fourth-place finish. That was at the Prairie State Games.

Adams, who is headed to Southern Illinois University along with Farrow and Craig Shelton, did not disappoint. He threw a shutout in the title game, a 7-0 win over Harrisville, Kansas. Adams gave up four hits and six strikeouts. Another shutout came in a 9-0 win over Kirkwood, Mo., last year's state champs. Beard gained the win.

The team, named because it wore the jerseys of Marian Central Hurricanes one year, actually started as 14-year-olds.

One challenge in the tourney is the use of wooden bats. "You would be surprised at how fielders have to adjust," Albright said.

Albright spends his weekdays away from baseball, teaching at Northeast Iowa Community College and spending his weekends in Johnsburg.

He looks forward to the tourney each year, as the hosts compliment his team's style of play.

"The kids had a lot of fun," Albright said.

And maybe if things work out, the strong youth teams which stay together through tournaments will be able to find those elusive summer contests.

CLC offers 3-on-3 tourney

College of Lake County will be hosting a three-on-three basketball tournament on Saturday, Aug. 1.

Proceeds from Hoops Fest will benefit the women's softball team's planned spring trip to Arizona.

Anyone age 16 or over, regardless of playing experience, is eligible. Team costs is $40 for a four-member team. Two games are guaranteed with prizes included.

Registration deadline is July 27.

For more information, call CLC at (708) 223-3600.

Libertyville Legion bats hot in time for tourney

Libertyville's Zac Adams continued his mastery of Wauconda as the Legion hurler chalked up a two-hitter.

Libertyville shutout Wauconda 13-0 in the first-round game of the double elimination Dist. 10 tourney.

"He was in control the whole game. He was not tremendous the first couple of innings, but after he got into his groove, no one could touch him," Libertyville Coach John Ahlgrim said.

Adams, coming off a weekend in which he was part of an all-star team which won a Missouri tournament helped his own cause with a two-run homer in the second. That gave Libertyville a 5-0 lead as it improved to 8-13 overall.

The win put Libertyville into a second round game with Highland Park. "They are a very good club and have the ability to hit the ball well. But we need to continue to hit the way we have been," Ahlgrim said.

Matt Wollverton was three-for-four; Matt Berenthal three-for-three; Matt Beitzel two-for-two and Doug Magic two-for-two.

Libertyville's highlight for the week was a close 7-6 upset of league power Barrington.

"It was an upset from the standpoint they were leading the league, but I know when we have all the players here we have the ability," Ahlgrim said.

Schleiden went the distance,

Wollverton started his hot hitting with a four-for-four day. His homer in the third gave Libertyville more breathing room at 6-4.

"He is a real good utility player," Ahlgrim said of Wollverton. Wollverton will be a senior at Libertyville High next fall, and plays outfield and third base.

A Beitzel RBI upped it to three runs before Barrington scored in the seventh.

Should Libertyville have knocked off Highland Park, it would have advanced to the district semifinals at Barrington this weekend.

Vernon falls in opener

Vernon's American Legion baseball team may have edged Waukegan by one in hits, but Waukegan kept ahead of Vernon in runs.

And that's what counts as Waukegan won 5-1. "We were never out of the game; we hit the ball hard but it would not fall," Vernon Coach Steve Breen said.

Vernon drops into the losers bracket in the Dist. 10 tourney, facing Waukegan in the second round. It would take three wins for Vernon to play for the title game this weekend at Barrington.

Mike Medell of Waukegan was the main thorn in the side of Vernon losing pitcher Todd Fine. He had a homer, double and two RBIs.

Vernon (17-13-2) scored its run in the second on singles by Mark Finn, Scott Miller and Chris Piggott.

Moulis, Morrison gain wins, Speedway records

Larry Hillerud of Arlington Heights, became the 10th different sprint car warrior in 14 nights to score a 25-lap feature win on July 18 at Toft Auto Racing's Wilmot Speedway in Wilmot, Wis.

Tim Cox of Park City, scored his third modified main of the season as did Rob Olson of Waukegan, in the sportsman. Jim Morrison of Antioch, won his second mini-modified main of the season, while Scott Porter of Sturtevant won his first race in eight years at Wilmot by taking a sweep of the Dwarf Race Cars with the heat and feature checkered flags.

Allen Winker took the early lead in the wheelie-popping sprint main with the only caution slowing the pace on lap 11 when Joe Roe looped in turn two. Winker continued to lead with Hillerud moving his J&L

Oil/Kaney Transportation Systems/Hot Rod Shop J&J Chassis Sprinter into runner-up on the restart as the wild winged wonders began darting wing to wing. On lap 21, as the front-runners sliced lapped traffic, Hillerud found just enough room on the inside coming out of turn two to take the lead. At the drop of the white flag, it came a calvary charge behind Hillerud for the final circuit with Kim Mock, Winker, point leader Dave Moulis and fast qualifier Frank Filsco trading spots through-out the one-third mile clay oval. Hillerud led the run for the checkered with Mock second, Winker third, Moulis fourth and Filsco fifth.

At the drop of the checkered flag, Todd Daun flipped end over end in the middle of turns three and four. Daun, the leading first-year sprint car warrior at Wilmot out of 11 competing, was not injured and placed 18 in the final standings.

The modified main was almost a preview of the sprints as Winker jumped in front from his front row starting berth.

Suddenly on lap five, Winker slid off the backstretch and into the infield with what ended up being a snapped U-joint in the drive line.

Cox put his LAM Racing Engines/Hot Rod Shop/Frisby Auto Electric/Larry's 24-hour gas mount in front when Winker retired. Two laps after the first yellow, another appeared when Larry Vandevere snapped off a fuel line as he came down the front straightaway with the car coasting to a stop against the wall. One lap later another caution appeared when Rick Schley spun in turn four. On the ensuing restart, Dennis Spitz spun in turn one. On the next restart attempt, Rick Schley rolled his mount in turn one bringing out a red flag. Schley was not injured. Due to the time it had taken to attempt to run the final eight laps of the race, it was checkered at the point as it had taken over 30 minutes. In the final standings it was Cox, Gary Dye, Jimmy Uttech Jr., point leader Lenny Ostrowski Jr. and Jon Behncke completing the top five. "Harry Gant was Mr.

September, and we jokingly said maybe we'd become Mr. July," said Cox, who welcomed his cousin visiting from Texas who had never seen him race before. "This makes two out of three this month with one more week to go. The track was in great shape and Vic from LAM has given me a super motor."

Glen Vernezze took the early lead in the 10-lap mini-modified main as the motorcycle-engined go-cart machines went three-wide at the drop of the green. On lap two, Jeff Hutchinson got hung up on the infield tires and brought a caution. Vernezze was hounded by the Morrison brothers, Jim and Roy, on the restart with Jim taking the lead on lap five and going on to his second straight main event win. Roy Morrison was second, Vernezze third, Kenny Johnson fourth and Hank Hovorka fifth. "We're starting to get things figured out," said Jim Morrison who wheeled his Wayne's Racing Fuel/Sexton Racing Engines/Signs by Tom mount to the win. "It's a lot of fun when the track is like this."

In all 20 races, plus sprint car time trials, and 95 cars competed during the evening's program with three track records being set.

Round Lake, Lake Villa ready for state challenges

Round Lake Colts finished the regular season of Lake County Colt League baseball on strong notes, scoring 17 runs in the final two wins.

The Colts downed Waukegan 9-3 and then gave Lake Villa I its second loss in an 8-4 decision. The wins give Round Lake a 21-3 record heading into post-season play.

"This year's team did not have the calibre of talent that last year's team did (state champs), but they knew the three losses were ones they should have won," Round Lake Coach Glen Jewell said.

Ryan Bauer led the way against Waukegan, allowing five hits and walking three in an eight-strikeout night at Bowen Park. Bauer had two hits and two RBIs. Rich Camarillo tripped and had three RBIs.

John Daniels gained his fifth win in six decisions as Round Lake downed Lake Villa I 8-4.

Justin Flemming's bases loaded double in the third gave the Round Lake team a 4-1 lead and was part of a six-run inning.

Jamie Hoffmann was two-for-two with an RBI. "He is starting to hit the ball. He's got a lot of speed - he has stolen home twice," Jewell said.

Mitch Levandowski was one-for-three with two RBIs and a sacrifice in the seven-hit attack.

Former Warren, Patriots coach in Millikin hall

A former Warren Twp. and Stevenson coach has been inducted into the Athletic Hall of Fame at Millikin University.

Mike DeHesus, whose latest position was as a principal at a middle school in Ft. Bragg, California, was welcomed into the Decatur school's hall.

DeHesus, a member of the Class of 1965 at Millikin, was a member of the school's undefeated 1961 football team and had a 17-9 record on the 1962 wrestling team when he was runner-up in the conference championships.

He had a 16-year career as a football assistant and head wrestling coach at three Illinois schools and at Fort Bragg High School.

He was an assistant football coach at Stevenson in 1973-84 and at Warren (1974-77) and Hononegah High near Rockford (1974-80). He was an assistant wrestling coach at Warren for six years and Hononegah for four. He was head coach for two years at Fort Bragg's wrestling program.

He served on the wrestling advisory committee and as a coach for the Prairie State Games, in numerous roles in USA

Wrestling, as coach of the Illinois Junior national freestyle wrestling team and as a board member of the Illinois Wrestling Foundation.

He holds the highest certificate in the USA Wrestling Coaches Certification Program and is a former member of the National Greco-Roman Developmental Committee.

Hall of Fame members are selected by a committee of Millikin alumni who consider athletic achievement at Millikin and/or later accomplishments in sports related fields.

Unlikely power hitter paces Vernon in sweep

More than a few heads were turned when Vernon baseball Coach Steve Breen decided to put in a virtual entire new lineup in the sixth inning with his team down 4-1 against Mundelein.

The strategy could have made Breen out to be the goat or the hero. Fortunately, the subs came through with a four-run seventh for a 5-4 win at Stevenson High. Vernon ends the regular Legion season with a 7-5-1 record.

"I did not put them in there to give them a leisurely Saturday afternoon walk in the park. I put them in there because I thought they could get the job done," Breen said.

The highlight of the outburst came when Keith Slove belted his first hit of the year for a homer. The two-run shot gave Vernon a 4-2 lead.

"He had a long double versus Waukegan (at huge Bowen Park). He's always hit a lot of batting practice homers," Breen said of Slove.

The inning actually started innocently enough, with a single by Jeff Turnbull. Mark Piggott was hit by a pitch and Jason Newman then delivered an RBI double.

Slove did not get much of a chance to rest. Slove's defense helped him in the seventh as he picked off Rob Brua, who doubled. After an error, Steve Taylor and Shawn Harlan singled for a 5-4 Vernon lead. But a fielder's choice and strikeout ended the game.

"I just try and go out there and challenge hitters," Slove said.

The second game did not count in district standings, but Vernon outlasted Mundelein 6-4 behind winning pitcher Scott Strube.

Vernon waited to the late stages to take control of this one as well.

Two walks, a single by Strubbe and doubles by Mark Finn, Mike Mackie, and Jeff Turnbull erased a 2-0 Mundelein lead in the fourth. The sixth run came in the fifth. Strubbe collected his second hit in as many innings with a RBI double.

Playing detective in your own garden

When it comes to poison ivy, poison oak or poison sumac rash, you can't trust anyone.

Your pet's fur, your friend's gardening gloves, or your own lawn mower may carry the poison oil. Birds may drop the plant seeds into your garden—soon to flourish attractively in moist and dry sites alike, spring and fall, on posts and trees, in shrubs and among flowers. Walk in it unknowingly, touch your shoes and then your face and you've done it.

"Seven out of 10 individuals can be expected to react when exposed to urushiol, the 'poison' of the Rhus family," according to Charles Zugerman, M.D., associate professor of clinical dermatology at Northwestern University Medical School.

It's little wonder that an estimated 18 million cases of poison ivy and poison oak rash affect Americans each year reportedly more cases of allergic contact dermatitis than from all other causes combined.

If you can't avoid the poison plants, you can move fast—within 10 minutes, preferably, to try to remove as much as possible of the oily urushiol toxins which have spread across your skin. Wherever your skin has overreacted to this allergen soon will be evident in telltale red patches. But, scrub gently with warm water and soap so as not to disturb the oil balance of your tissue.

If allergic reaction starts—causing inflammation, fluid accumulation and itching—apply a medicated cream or lotion such as that contains an astringent to dry oozing blisters and an anesthetic to relieve pain and itching, as well as an antiseptic to prevent secondary infection.

Soothe affected skin with warm water compresses, to which you may add a small amount of vinegar or oatmeal. Avoid caffeine and alcohol, which may increase itching. Keep rough clothing and hot water away from affected skin.

Meanwhile, launder your clothing separately; cast a sharp eye on pets, garden tools, camping and sports equipment that may be spreading the rash.

If you are determined to remove the pesky plants from your premises, use heavy duty vinyl gloves, rather than rubber, when touching them. Spray with an all-purpose herbicide. Remember that burning the plants can produce severe poison ivy dermatitis if you are exposed to vapors carried by wind or smoke.

Wandering through the woods or through your own garden murmuring "Leaves three, let them be" as you attempt to identify the enemy is all well and good. But it's best to take a fatalistic attitude and, instead of berating yourself for having fallen prey to the age-old charms of the Rhus plant family, look instead to the benefits of prompt treatment.

Once you have determined the source of your rash, take steps to avoid reexposure. Repeated contact with the allergenic material may increase your sensitivity and severity of your reaction.

Low quotes on boats, deals on wheels near Fox Lake will be a mecca for bargain hunters during Sale-A-Bratton, a wheeling-and-dealing weekend, July 31 through Aug. 2.

Three new-car dealers and 10 boat dealers will all offer their wares at extra-special prices in the Metra commuter lot, while other merchants participate in a village-wide sidewalk sale.

Getting a great deal on a car, boat or an extensive outdoor array of other merchandise wouldn't be the only attraction, however. The weekend will feature an arts and crafts fair, collector car show, the annual Venetian Night boat parade and a free water-skiing show. In addition, several local eateries will offer their specialties in a "Taste of Fox Lake."

Ray Chevy-Geo, Sandy McKie Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge and Fox Lake Ford-Mercury will be the new-car dealers. The boat dealers setting up shop just off Grand Avenue will include Kramer Boat Co., Skipper Bud's, Watts Marina, Sailing World, Pistakee Marina, Fox Lake Harbor, Lake Shore Marine, Inboard Water Sports, Munson Marine and Ostrow Marine.

Boats will be up for grabs all three days of the Sale-A-Bratton, but because of state law, cars can't be sold on Sunday. The sidewalk sale will run three days.

The arts and crafts fair will take place at the Fox Lake Community Center Aug. 1.

The annual Venetian Night parade will start at dusk, winding from Pistakee Lake through Nippersink Lake and into Fox Lake.

The collector car show is slated for Aug. 2 in the Lakeland Plaza parking lot. Everything from '60s muscle cars to vintage classic cars will be on hand.

The Badgerland Ski Team — with over 70 skiers, seven boats and a ski jump — will present a free show sponsored by the boat dealers Aug. 2.

Where are your kids?

Hi, I am from Lake Villa. My husband and I have raised six children and we love them very much. We spent a lot of time and money in raising them. Now, they are grown and contact with them is minimal. Oh, they remember our address and phone number when they need a baby-sitter, financial assistance, or help with home repairs. And they do turn up on holidays and special occasions when dear ol' Mom and Dad roll out the red carpet. It is all of those hours, days, and weeks in between when they don't stop in to see how we are doing or tell us that they were thinking of us. Is it too much to ask to be thought of besides babysitting? Are there not more days in the year besides scheduled holidays? I know they love us. Too bad they don't realize how much we miss having them around. Thank you.

People who need recognition

I would like the Lake County Board to set aside one day of special recognition for firefighters, police officers, and paramedics. It seems that their special recognition only comes after they have given their lives. These people put their lives on the lines everyday. They deserve to be honored now. No, I am not related to anyone in these departments. I just love and respect them all. With the growth in Lake County, more calls are coming in everyday. Is there anything that we can do? They need to be honored. Thank you so much for hearing me.

Local news not criticisms

Hello. Every week I go out and buy the Fox Lake paper and all I hear about is the criticisms about the trustees pay, etc. What I would really like to see is real local news. I think that I saw two or three articles about the musical that Grant had. It was fantastic. And I do see the student of the month. But, how about more stories about the high school sports and I don't see why you don't have pictures of the Little League games or even their scores? Maybe if we put more positive things in the paper about our kids, less negative activities would happen. Thank you very much for letting me get this off my chest. A Fox Lake parent.

Open eyes, see school

I just would like to tell all the people who voted against the Antioch High School referendum to open their eyes. I suspect the people who voted against it are older with no kids in the school right now. They gathered all their information from statistics and gossip. They have no idea how awful it really is in the school. I, as a recent graduate, will tell you. Every classroom was overcrowded. With 30 to 35 students in each classroom, it is hard for even the best of teachers to keep control. It is even harder for the students to learn. All the equipment that the teachers have is outdated. Not to mention that our computer lab is nonexistent. There is no place for the student to study during free time. The library is packed with classes and so is the resource center, which leaves the commons. Most of the time, you can't find a seat. In the cafeteria, it takes 15 minutes to get your food, and only 10 minutes to eat. Next year, students have to pay to participate in sports. What about the children who can't afford it? That equipment is outdated, too. I just want to ask the people who voted no, who are you kidding? All you care about is your check book. Is it really worth jeopardizing the future?

Late news for soccer team

Hi, I live in Lindenhurst and I played on the Antioch Varsity soccer team. And I just want everyone to know, I know that it is after school, but we had a really good season and that you had all these articles about Libertyville, but none on Antioch. I just wanted everyone to know.

Golden pain

Hello, I am calling from Antioch. You have had a lot of people calling about dogs being where they shouldn't be. We had a lost dog at our house. We would have tried to find his home if he would have had a collar on. Anyhow, this dog hung around our house. It was a Golden Retriever. It ended up jumping into our swimming pool and putting a hole in our liner. We have two dogs of our own, but they know that the pool is off limits. So we have a hole. I don't blame the dog, it is the owners fault. Thank you.

Fox Lake is nice, not rude

In response to "Restaurant review," get serious. Fox Lake may not be as elegant as Lake Forest, but all the restaurants strive to please their customers. I have lived in this town for many years and have dined at many of the restaurants. And I have never seen an owner refuse to answer a customer's complaint. I have never seen an owner or manager disagree or be the least bit unfriendly unless severely provoked. Home cooking in a restaurant is rare. It sounds to me like a personal offense. It is your behavior that needs to be questioned. Fox Lake.

Delivery late for paper

On July 16, I received the July 10 issue of your paper from my subscription. Usually, I receive my subscription the Saturday after publication, but the Thursday after is absolutely ridiculous. In reading the old paper, I hesitate to call it a newspaper since I am getting it so late. I would have loved to have had the opportunity to take my children to see the Vietnam Memorial replica at Vernon Hills Days, but we didn't find out about it until it was long past. I also would

A labor of love at Lipizzan farms

A day in the life of a working hand at the stables includes shoveling manure, polishing tack, grooming horses. It's physically intensive work with little or no monetary gain. Yet some people have actually given up lucrative careers or put off college to do it.

For these working hands, really working students, the reward is far more than money can buy. It's the unique opportunity to learn the art of classical dressage from the masters aboard the rare and beautiful Lipizzan breed.

The working student program at Tempel Farms in Wadsworth started in 1983 and since then has attracted students from around the world. It's a mutually beneficial arrangement for both the Farms and the students.

"Without the working students it would be very difficult to maintain the horses. For the students, what we'd have to charge for lessons would be overwhelming," said Roberta Williams, director of program development at Tempel Farms.

The program has evolved somewhat since it started, from a very structured program where number of hours worked were translated into number of hours in the saddle to a more flexible program. "We've found that we must be very flexible. Some days they may spend one hour, other days the whole time will be in the saddle. Riding horses is like eating candy. The more you ride the more you want to," said Williams.

The requirements for acceptance into the program have also relaxed some although in general students should have experience in dressage and handling stallions. "Sometimes you get a gut feeling. We had one girl from Sweden who didn't have any dressage experience, but she had such a natural way with horses," said Williams.

For Anita Adams of Wauconda, 35, working at Tempel Farms is a dream revisited. When she was 20 and halfway through college she took off to Austria to be a working student at a dressage facility. After nine months, her funds dried up and she returned to school to study advertising. "I decided at that time that I'd be better off supporting myself another way and buying a nice horse."

Adams worked as an art director at J. Walter Thompson in Detroit and continued to ride on weekends and evenings. When her husband got a job at Leo Burnett advertising agency in Chicago, Adams did advertising freelance work for awhile.

Before long she learned that Karl Mikolka, a riding master from the Spanish Riding School, taught dressage at Tempel

by CLAUDIA M. LENART

Farms. She started taking lessons and then asked to be taken in as a working student, giving up her career in advertising.

Adams sees her work with horses as more intrinsically rewarding than advertising was. "When working in advertising, a client might have a fit because a line on an ad was not perfectly pasted. If you have a concern here it seems to be more founded. It strikes a truer chord."

Adams owns a Lipizzan, Siglavy IV Belamira, and one of her goals is to see her horse develop through the various stages of Lipizzan training, a slow and very precise process.

Stacey Cooper's work with horses never ends. After spending a full day at Tempel Farms, she goes home to Cooper's Rainbow, her parent's Arabian farm in Mundelein, and tries to translate her learning into her own horses. Arabians and Lipizzans mature at about the same rate and Cooper likes the philosophy at Tempel where horses don't begin training until they reach the age of four.

"Everything is done classically; they're very true to the old masters' style. They have a natural way of training, trying to go with the horse. There's a reason for traditions to stay, because they work," said Cooper.

Cooper, 28, took riding lessons as a teen and always wanted to be involved in a horse-related field. She studied pre-veterinary medicine and equine physiology at Southern Illinois University. "At the time I didn't know I wanted to be a horse trainer. After two years of school I developed a strong desire to become a horse trainer."

Cooper's parents had always been involved with horses and five years ago

Visit a Real Space Colony

By JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

On September 26, 1991, four men and four women began the first two years of what will eventually be a 100 year space colonization experiment. There was no need for NASA'S Space Shuttle, however, since the brave new world these space colonists entered was only two hours outside of Phoenix!

The name of this space colony is "Biosphere 2." Biosphere 2 is, indeed, an experimental space habitat. It is, however, much more.

Biosphere 2 is a miniature world complete with tropical rain forests, savannah, marsh, ocean, desert, farm and human habitat ecosystems, all enclosed within a three-acre airtight structure. Air, water and food will be recycled within the transparent enclosure. Air is recycled by plants, animals and non living parts of the environment, like rocks and bodies of water, in the same manner as the air is "recycled" in the real world.

Biosphere 2 will not only provide us with information on how to set-up habitats in space, but will also help us better understand our ecosystem here on Earth.

Visitors are welcome at Biosphere 2.

Public tours are given seven days a week from 9:00 AM to 4:00 PM. Through the transparent glass structure of Biosphere 2 the public can view the over 4,000 plants and animals, as well as the eight humans, that make up its complete ecosystem. Windows even allow undersea viewing into the sphere's Ocean Biome which is a shallow water lagoon complete with colorful coral reef and a deep water ecosystem.

To give first-hand experience of life inside Biosphere 2 visitors are given walking tours around the sphere, through tropical rain forests, marine, desert, agriculture and animal bays complete with pygmy goats, swine, chickens and fish.

There's even a hotel right on the grounds called The Inn at the Biosphere, which overlooks the surrealistic looking Biosphere 2, set in the spectacular Santa Catalina mountains. See your travel agent for more information.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You peak early on in the week — not exactly a problem, but you may be taking a lot for granted. Great things are afoot this weekend. Just be THERE.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) As of midweek, you are into your first of three testings this year. If the next few weeks are easy, you'll be okay. If there are some hassles, then make those needed adjustments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're so good at those crazy moments, you get to prove it again. The highs and lows that you explore in the next few days are enough to drive anyone else nutty. You peak just in time for the weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One thing you can count on is being noticed this week. You reap your karmic dues at work. You hit the bull's-eye socially, and need to vanish (desperately!) for the weekend. You need the R & R.

LEO (July 23-August 22) You pull out of the doldrums this week and feel much better than you have in a long, long time. An important call or piece of news comes your way, and makes a very big difference. Count on celebrations all weekend long. You deserve this one — go for it!!!

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You are unusually intense and serious this week, as you register what you have created. One-to-one conversations, as you look for a force in you.

advice. You'll open up to more opportunities, if you let go and move on. Follow a dream this weekend, and you may walk on clouds for quite a while.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) Once more, the planets decide to test and challenge. What's being said is obvious: stop forcing issues and let go of what isn't working for you. This weekend, do some soul-searching.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) You are a high roller in life this week, though do make sure to complete those details, if you really want this to work. Summer celebrations and heated romance could make this a sizzling next few weeks. Work on when to take off and when to hang in.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) Important decisions need to be made. Talks with a loved one bring interesting news to the forefront. Some of you will simply give in to the heated winds of summer and let everything else take care of itself.

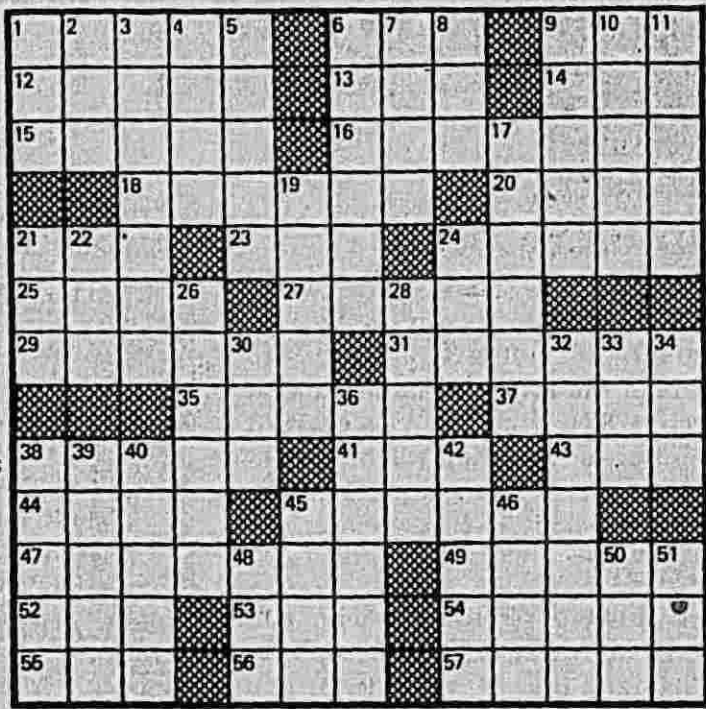

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You may need to make the first move, if you really care. Initiate change and make it happen your way. The real question is, do you really want this? Allow yourself to open up to the lighter side of life as the week progresses.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) Get past a money matter. Call a halt to spending, and find other ways of really enjoying yourself. The drums beat all week with news, gossip and information. Spend a quiet weekend at home, with only the friends you choose to be with. You need some down time.

'Kiss' successful metaphor

Alec Baldwin carries his Tony-nominated role of Peter in the Broadway stage play "Prelude to a Kiss" onto the big screen successfully.

He and his co-star, Meg Ryan, who plays his love Rita, are part of what is best about the film version.

The picture takes place in Chicago and the beginning of the film has a terrific shot of the Wrigley Bldg. to prove it.

Rita and Peter fall in love and after living together for short while, decide to get married. Their romance is the best part of the movie as they transmit chemistry like that which flew around in "Officer and a Gentleman," "Pretty Woman," "Always," and "Backstreet."

Meg Ryan Alec Baldwin

This is when the problems begin, but not the normal problems usually thought of when romance evolves into marriage. At the wedding reception an old man, played by Sydney Walker kisses the bride and everything changes. Rita and the old man exchange personalities. The film now delves into whether or not love should depend on age or sex and also whether true love can survive when the person you think you have fallen in love with changes completely.

What we are trying to say is that we are not sure we completely understood the author's intent in the last half of the movie, but we did enjoy it.

We are giving "Kiss" 3-1/2 stars out of five, mostly because we love the whimsy of Meg Ryan and because we have the distinct feeling that when we see the picture for the second time we'll understand it thoroughly.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Take walk through 1950

"Buddy: The Buddy Holly Story" takes one on a time-warp walk to the '50s when rock 'n roll was in its heyday and Buddy Holly one of its prime movers and shakers.

This 2-1/2 hour musical journey, written by Alan Janes and directed by Rob Bettinson, has made a welcome stop on its national tour at Chicago's Shubert Theater.

Chip Esten plays the likable Buddy, a young singer-composer-musician from Lubbock, Texas, who, with a trio of musicians known as the Crickets, achieved widespread popularity as entertainers. Even though Holly met an untimely death in a plane crash in February, 1959, a cult status built up around the singer.

The fans never tired of such numbers as "Peggy Sue," "That'll Be the Day," "Raining in My Heart" and "Rave On" — all of which are in the musical.

With a broad smile, trademark horn-rimmed glasses, crouched hop and mean electric guitar, Esten invigorates the role of Holly, showing him as a hard-driving perfectionist with a keen sense of fair play. The play fleshes out Holly's faltering start in the music business. In his first record contract with Decca, sparks fly as the company insists he perform country western instead of rock 'n roll.

Chip Esten as Buddy Holly

Well-crafted set changes quickly shift the scenes from radio stations to recording studios to Holly's appearances at New York's Apollo Theater and his final show at The Surf Ballroom in Clear Lake, Iowa. "Buddy" makes excellent use of its ready-made audience on several occasions.

"Buddy" is scheduled to run through July 26.—by TOM WITOM

Lipizzans

purchased the Arabian farm. Cooper went on to work at various riding facilities trying to gain experience to bring back to her family's farm. While working as a groom for a dressage competitor out of New Jersey, she fell in love with dressage. Upon returning to the area, she found Tempel Farms.

"I do feel this is the best opportunity I've had in the business. I'm excited that I found this place," Cooper said.

'You can never have enough time in the saddle.'

—Anita Adams

At 21, Julie Serwatka is one of the youngest working students at Tempel. But her riding ability is far beyond her years. This year she just missed being chosen to compete in the North American Young Riders Championship, which is one of the most prestigious equestrian competitions in the world. At 13 she won the Medal-MacLay in Wisconsin, a top riding competition for hunter/jumpers.

Serwatka came to Tempel Farms after graduating from high school in Cedarburg, Wisconsin. She's lived at Tempel ever since and now works as assistant stable manager. Serwatka is still deciding whether she wants to continue in her current direction, and become a trainer, or go on to college and become a veterinarian.

Serwatka works six days a week, sometimes 10- or 12-hour days, but she loves every minute. She's learning how to communicate with the horses, to let them teach her.

Serwatka is learning the long rein from George Williams, director of the Tempel Lipizzan Corporation and dressage training. Williams is one of the best in the world at the long rein in which the rider is standing on the ground and directs the stallion using only a long rein.

"It's a different feeling than being on the horse. It's a bit of a challenge really."

Although in recent years, most working students have been women, it hasn't always been that way. The art of classical dressage was once strictly a man's world. For centuries the art was passed down only verbally from one generation of male European riding masters to the next.

George Williams brought the first female working student to Tempel Farms in 1983. "It was a big deal at that time," said Roberta Williams, who's married to George.

Today, female working students including Serwatka and Adams, perform in the Young Stallions portion of the Tempel Lipizzan show. Spectators at a Wednesday morning or Friday evening performance can see them ride to the music of Mozart and Tchaikovsky.

Some of the students may dream of eventually performing the most skilled ballet-like maneuvers upon a Lipizzan in exhibition. Some may dream of someday owning a dressage training facility of their own. Some may dream of spending more time in the saddle.

"You can never have enough time in the saddle," said Adams. "It's one of those things where the more you know, the more you realize you don't know."

George Williams, director of Lipizzans and dressage training at Tempel Farms, demonstrates the Capriole during a performance at Tempel Farms. The performance season runs through Aug. 26. Shows are at 10:30 a.m., Wednesday, and 7:30 p.m., Friday. There will be a Sunday performance, July 26, at 1 p.m. For more information call (708)623-7272.

Griefnotes

Many widowed people complain that they no longer feel comfortable with old friends and in old social situations. In addition, they feel that their empty house and evening hours increase the loneliness. Learning how and where to meet people is difficult. The best solution for finding friends is to be active socially and at work. Support can be gained through church groups and special groups for the widowed. Joining in political campaigns, community organizations, golf or tennis clubs are

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am coming up on 20 years employment with a well known national corporation. It has been told to me that I may be among a few employees who will be asked to take an early retirement. I feel very strong about continuing to work and had considered doing so for another 7-10 years before retiring. When approached by the company can I refuse? L.B.

A: Hold on! Don't jump the gun on this. I have heard of some pretty sweet deals people have received from their employers upon accepting an early retirement program. In fact, one deal was so sweet that the individual took his early retirement and along with it came perks, benefits and $$$$. He decided to start a small business of his own which allowed him to fulfill a life long desire to do so and further allowed him the flexibility to do some traveling. Since you have not been formally approached, consider what you would do if you were faced by this. Before you get yourself all worked up at the possibility find out about your corporate retirement plan, it may be wonderful. Plan ahead!

Q: Just over three weeks ago I left a company I have worked at for four years. I left for a position that had opened up in our family business that I thought would be challenging. I left my former employer on very good terms, they were sorry to see me go. My problem is now I am sorry I left! I miss my old job and co-workers and I am finding this new position anything but challenging. I realize now that I may have made a mistake. What should I do? J.G.

A: Be honest with everybody including yourself. Have you given this new position a fair chance? Something caused you to make that move to begin with. Was it money, a better opportunity or perhaps just as you said a challenge? If you feel strong about your employer, you have nothing to lose by speaking with your former Supervisor or the Personnel Department and letting them know how you feel. Be prepared for the strong possibility that your previous position may have already been filled with a new employee, maybe not! But being honest with them is worth a shot. The worst they can do is say "no" and if they do you still have a job that you may just start to enjoy a bit more with a little time. Good Luck.

Summer heat returns with Maxwell Street Days, Taste

by THOMAS STEVENS
Lakeland Newspapers

Just in time for summer's heat is the return of the Taste of Antioch and Maxwell Street Days to the downtown area this weekend.

Maxwell Street Days and the Taste of Antioch, which is scheduled from July 23-25, are sponsored by the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, the local merchants and restaurants and the Village of Antioch.

This year's Taste, according to Taste of Antioch Organizer Frank DiMarco, will be more entertaining and have more restaurants.

The Taste, which is held in the municipal parking lot on Toft Ave. under the water tower, will not only offer the food of 14 area restaurants but will feature a carnival, bingo, miniature golf and live entertainment.

The increased number of restaurants participating in this year's event will increase the variety of foods available. From ethnic treasures to pizza and ice cream, the Taste is set to please all who attend, said DiMarco.

Participating in this year's Taste are Antioch Pizza, Beanies Taco Town, Boardwalk Pub, D & G's LTD, Dairy Queen, DiMarco's Family Restaurant, Hogans, Nolan's on the Lake, R Place on Lake Marie, Ron and Pat's Pizza Shack, Taco Bell, T.N.T.'s Place, World Famous Village Pub and Wunder Bar Restaurant.

In addition to the Taste, 15 local merchants will be participating in the Chamber's Maxwell Street Days, an Antioch tradition which attracts shoppers from all over the surrounding area who are looking for a bargain.

Maxwell Street Days traditionally is a clearance time for the Antioch merchants and low prices will not disappoint the frugal shopper.

Many of the merchants are offering items at 20 to 40 percent off regular prices.

New for this year's celebration is an increased focus on quality entertainment for everyone. Live music from country, rock and roll and rhythm and blues are scheduled for the three day festival.

Also included at this year's festival is a beer garden and wine sampling, courtesy of Armanetti Action Liquors in Antioch.

Pommies set for comeback

A group of Grayslake Community High School students may be a little dizzy this week, but they won't mind.

For two days this week, GCHS students hoping to keep the pom-pom club going twirled in cartwheel fashion, raising funds for the coming year. Pledges are coming in for everything from $1 to 10 cents a cartwheel.

The Factory is allowing Rams pommies a chance to continue in their avocation. The school board, citing budget constraints, cut funding from the program in the spring. But then Alum wrote to Grayslake High principal Elizabeth McDonald, explaining the idea.

The eight girls workout two days a week. Ultimate Distributors of Mundelein is helping with the uniforms. The pommies are counting down the days before school starts. Alum expects more to join once the 1992-93 fall sports seasons start.

"The kids are really looking forward to it," Alum said.

have enjoyed the quilt show at Lake County Fairgrounds, but did not find out about the event until it was past, too. I'd like to see if you can be as efficient in the delivery of your paper as you are in your billing. Hawthorn Woods.

Information, please

What I would like to know about the water management. When is it suppose to come up on referendum? Many people are interested, it has been in there for over four years. So, let's get some information on it. Thank you.

Congrats to queen

We would like to congratulate Kimberly Becker, Little Miss Lake County 1991, for doing such a fine job representing Lake County. You certainly are a queen.

You'll be seniors, too

To those who resent senior discounts, maybe you'd prefer euthanasia instead? True, economy eats up the income. But, we must strive for the very existence of life. So, every bit of help is welcome. The seniors were young once and we had the Depression. The youth today have inflation. But, they have the good fortune of years ahead of them. One day they will look into the mirror, and see a new senior.

Store needed

Wake up Antioch and village officials! We need a K-mart or Venture store to keep our money in the area. Now, we have to go to Round Lake to do our shopping. And that village is getting our money instead of Antioch. Question most of the people in town and they will agree. We don't need another grocery store. Instead of new housing, give us something that will keep our money here in Antioch. Thank you.

Slow down and keep money

Hi, I would like to state my opinion on the Hainseville Police. Ever since I have lived in Round Lake, which is eight years, I have heard people complain about the speed trap and about how much money Hainseville makes by stopping the motorists. Don't we have a choice here? We control our automobiles. I always watch my speed in Hainseville and never go over 40 miles an hour. If you don't want a ticket then go the speed limit. The limits are set according to the amount of traffic going through the area and for public safety. Slow down and keep the money in your pockets. Thank you. Round Lake.

Thanks from queen 1991

Our daughter Jodi Arnesen was just crowned Little Miss Wauconda 1992. We would like to thank Kim Murphy and her daughter, Morgan, Little Miss Wauconda 1991, for all of their help. Morgan did a great job all year. I'd like to thank all of the local businesses for their help and support, Barbara Jud, Mistress of Ceremonies, and everyone who helped make this such a wonderful pageant. Thank you.

Snobs are moving in

Hi, this is in regards to "Residents are snobs." The person who just moved to Antioch and was complaining that the residents were rude. I have lived in Libertyville for 23 years, all my life. The residents here have gotten snottier and snottier as every year passes. I can totally relate to what this person was saying. When I was a kid, I loved Libertyville. Now, that I am an adult, this place really does stink. I can't wait to get out of here, either.

Hearing bells

This is to my new son and my girlfriend. Chris and Sean, I love you both and I am ready to make the commitment.

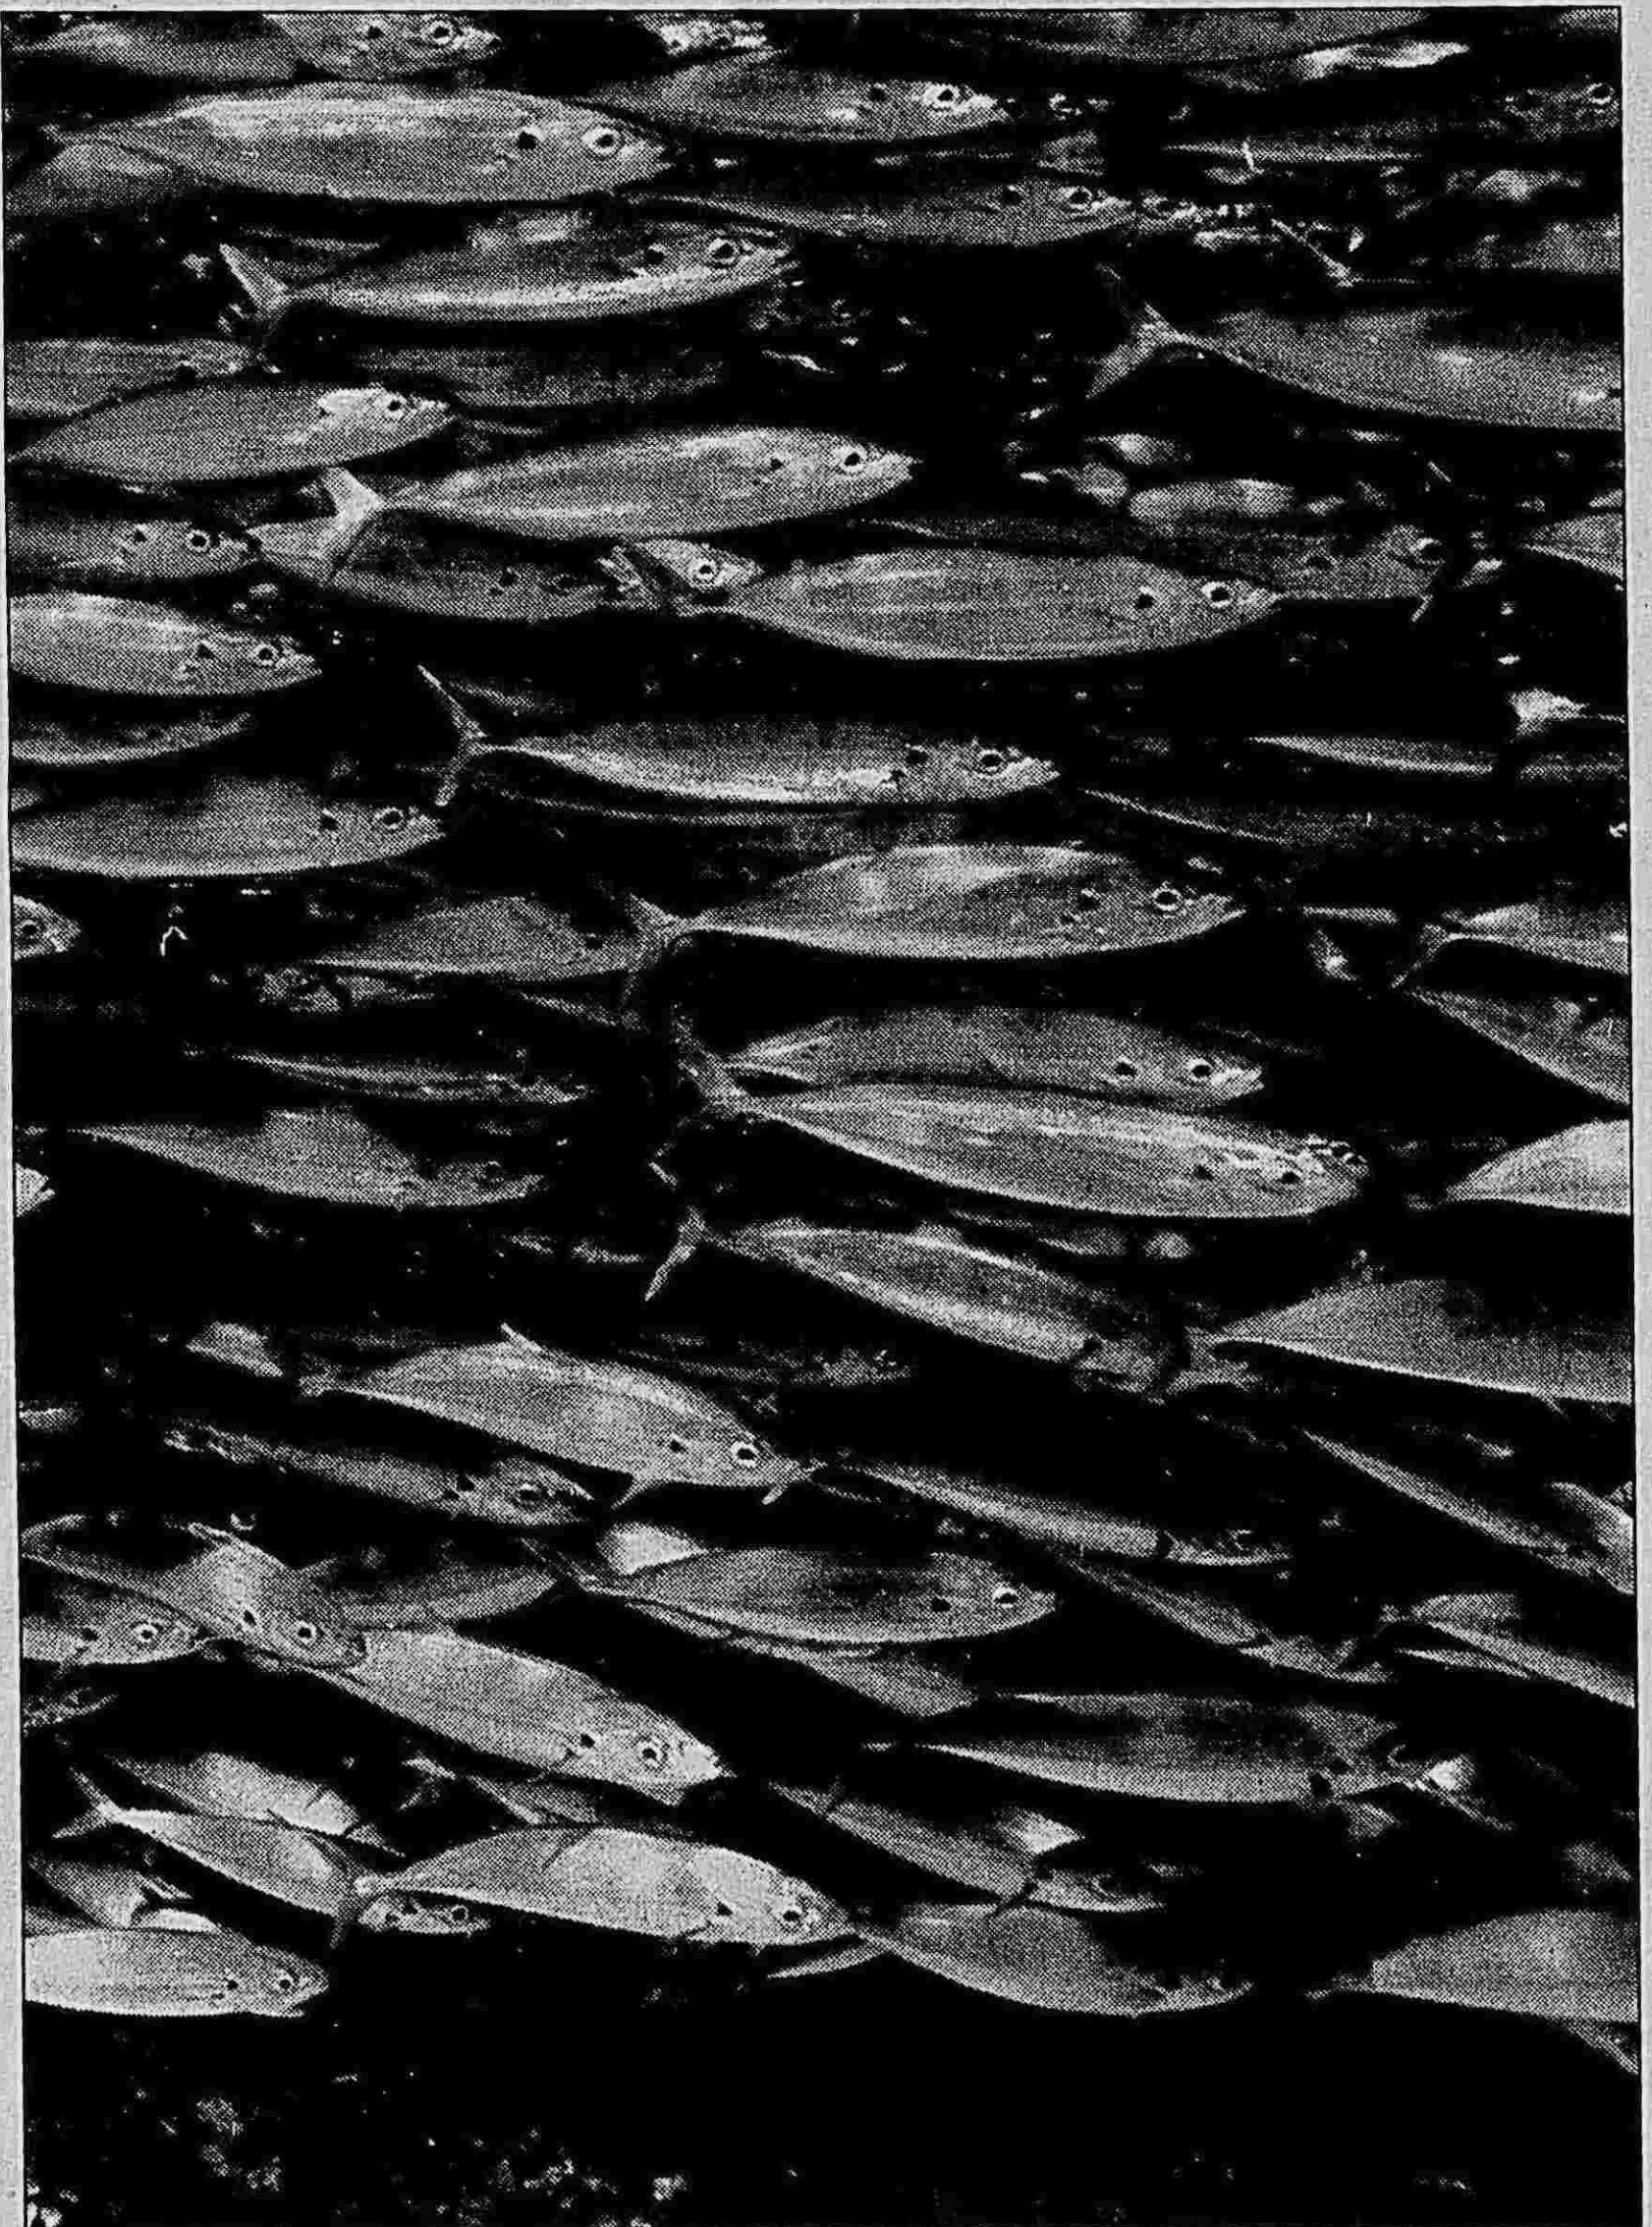

Dog owners, take care

Hello, I am from Island Lake and I have a message to the area dog owners. As a responsible dog owner, I go to great lengths to make sure that my dog is healthy, under control, and not allowed to roam the streets. I am sick and tired of the dog owners who could care less about what their dogs are doing. For instance, there is a house that lets their dog out to tip garbage cans, relieve itself in other people's yards. Then there are the people who let their dogs snarl and bite when we try to pass them on the street, even though my dog is on a leash. If they take any notice that their dog is trying to kill my dog, they don't do anything. They yell from the porch that their dog is friendly and that it is okay. Well, it is not okay. Keep better care of your dogs, or get rid of them before someone else does.

Panty Perverts

Hi. I had something really outrageous happen to me. It made me mad, too. Last week, I went to a laundromat in Grayslake. Our dryer at home was broken, and I needed some jeans, a couple blouses, and some panties dried. I threw them in the drier and thought, "Hey this is Grayslake, I can leave them." So, I went and got my car washed and ran a few errands. It took no longer than 15 minutes. I got back and all my clothes were dry, but all of my panties were missing. They left everything else and just took my underwear. These were good panties, mind you. I just want everyone to know that there are some strange panty perverts out there! I can't believe that something like this would happen.

Schools visit Edison conservation area.

When we bought the land for our Braidwood power plant, we also spent a lot of time restoring it. We stocked an abandoned strip mine with tons of fish. And set aside over 3,000 acres as a public recreation area for everything from fishing to picnicking to fossil hunting. So come out and see what we've done. It's a real breath of fresh air.
